UR Talks Bring Understanding

A New York meeting Thursday of local and federal urban renewal officials to discuss Kingston project problems resulted in a trend toward "closer relationship" between the two agencies, Frank A. Reis, local UR Agency chairman, said today.

See Threat Eased

Reis, who indicated that members who attended the session came from it with the feeling that a threatened suspension of Eric Hemphill, KURA executive director, is not to have a follow through at this time. The threat came in a telegram this week from the office of Charles J. Horan, assistant regional administrator for renewal assistance, Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Reis' statement today:

"The KURA on Thursday afternoon met in New York City with Horan, regional director of DHUD.

"Many items of interest for all departments were discussed. A generally friendly and informative air prevailed. As a result of the meeting a closer working relationship between the federal authorities and those of the City of Kingston involved in the urban renewal program, is expected.

"Mr. Horan indicated his office had not yet had the opportunity to review a letter of the KURA dated the 15th of May, but not received until Monday of this week by his office. An evaluation of that letter, contents of which sets forth the local agency's plan to meet recent federal objections to Kingston's program, is expected in the near future.

Horan Coming

Horan indicated he would accept the KURA's invitation and view the local projects within the next few weeks.

With Reis at the meeting were Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan, S. James Matthews, counsel to the KURA, Edmund S. Peppard and William T. Mahoney, agency members, Hemphill and Ralph Marallo, relocation director.

The letter referred to by Reis

was a reply to the telegram from Horan's office criticizing demolition procedure and removal of rubble from Downtown's Broadway East project.

The reply noted that the KURA was making sincere and effective effort to comply with previous DHUD orders, and held that only the KURA and not the DHUD was empowered to suspend Hemphill or temporarily stop payments of his $14,555 salary.

Reis says Horan has admitted that Hemphill was under direct control of the KURA. The letter in its reply to Horan's telegram held that the threat against Hemphill, represented "a flagrant abuse of power."

Uptown Sales Stress Holiday

Members of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association are conducting a "Red, White and Blue Sale" today, Saturday and Monday. The association stores will be closed Tuesday in observance of Memorial Day.

"With local schools and some industries enjoying the long weekend, there is ample opportunity for residents to take advantage of this sale and to stock up for their holiday needs. We urge everyone to observe Tuesday, Memorial Day, in honor of our nation's war dead," said Gordon Dew, chairman of the Uptown Business Men's Association promotion committee.

'Peanuts'—'Nancy' Joining Freeman

Two more popular cartoons, "Peanuts" by Charles Schulz and "Nancy", drawn by Ernie Bushmiller, will be added to The Freeman's comic page starting Monday, May 29.

"Peanuts" will have that delightful cast including Lucy, Linus, Schroeder, Patty, Violet and last, but not least, Snoopy the Dog. The favorite strip helped bring the National Cartoonist Society's awards to Schulz in both 1956 and 1964. Schulz is the only cartoonist to be so honored.

"Nancy" is one of the world's best known and best loved newspaper comics. It came into being in 1937 and has been going stronger and stronger ever since.

Objectives Met, Cairo Says

By ROY ESSOYAN
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —

Egypt has achieved its objectives in its military confrontation with Israel and if there is to be war Israel will have to start it, the semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al-Ahram of Cairo said today.

A full-page editorial written by Mohamed Hassanien Heikal, who often reflects the political thinking of President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said Egypt had frustrated what he called an Israeli plan to attack Syria and had accomplished a blockade of Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba.

"Egypt finds itself compelled at this stage to stop at what it has accomplished so far, even if this means that we wait to receive a blow from Israel," Heikal wrote.

"Let Israel start. This will be followed by a second blow on our side which will be the death blow."

At the same time, Associated Press Correspondent Hans Neuerbourg reported from the Jordanian port of Aqaba at the head of the gulf that Egyptian antiaircraft guns apparently fired on two Israeli Mirage jet fighters from Egypt's side of the gulf. But the planes landed apparently undamaged at Elath, the Israeli port two miles across the bay from Aqaba.

Two explosions reverberated around the hilly rim of the gulf shortly before noon and the Mirages returned to Elath from the direction of the Egyptian border.

Earlier in the week Egyptian shore guns fired on an Israeli torpedo boat and forced it to return to Elath.

In a related development, Foreign Secretary George Brown of Britain wound up talks with Soviet leaders and Moscow and said he found the Russians had "an urgent desire to defuse the situation" in the Middle East.

He left for London after conferences with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Brown said the Soviet leaders had been officially informed only Thursday night of the French proposal for a joint peace effort by the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France.

He said it was too early to expect a Kremlin decision. It was understood by other Westerners in Moscow, however, that the Russians want to seek a solution independently. The Kremlin has lent moral support to the Arabs.

A dispatch from Damascus said Syria had rejected the French proposal, saying: "The Arabs no longer accept guardianship of the Middle East by anyone." President Nasser was reported Thursday to have reacted favorably to the French idea.

American families and other foreigners began hurrying out of the Middle East. Wives and children of U.S. officials in Israel started flying to Rome to wait out the crisis. In Cairo, a U.S. embassy official reported 140 of the 433 American dependents scheduled to leave would depart tonight for Athens, Greece.

Only dependents of U.S. officials — more than 500 women and children — were under orders to leave Israel and Cairo. Between 8,000-10,000 Americans live as permanent residents in Israel but only a few have left. About 3,000 Americans live in Egypt and many of these are making private arrangements for departure.

The United States has advised Americans not on essential business to leave the tense areas.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant returned to New York Thursday night from his peace mission to Cairo and prepared a report to the Security Council.

LBJ, Pearson Discuss Middle East

Agree on U.N. Jurisdiction

OTTAWA (AP) — President

Johnson and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson have agreed that solution to the Middle East crisis should be left first of all to the United Nations, Canadian informants said today.

While the two leaders at their meeting Thursday discussed the French proposal for a big-power conference, these sources said, Johnson gave no indication that he might take the initiative toward such a meeting.

This seemed to discount a Canadian official's earlier report that Johnson told Pearson he may propose such a meeting if the United Nations fails to cool off the crisis.

The four-power meeting suggested by France could in effect be part of the U.N. picture, since all four — the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Britain — are permanent members of the Security Council.

Both leaders expressed hope the informant said, that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant would have some solution as a result of his meeting in Cairo this week with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Johnson was reported to have said, however, that if Thant's efforts failed and if the 15-nation Security Council is unable to agree on measures to ease the crisis, Johnson would favor meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Pearson agreed that four-power talks at the top level would be desirable if U.N. efforts broke down, the informant said, but he told the President that Canada would prefer a U.N. settlement involving the establishment of a border patrol along the Egyptian-Israel frontier.

Thant pulled the U.N. Middle East peace force out of the area last week in response to demands by Nasser.

Johnson and Pearson held a news conference just before the President returned to Washington but gave no hint of possible solutions to the Middle East crisis which they had discussed.

Johnson said the talk covered "problems of peace in the world today," including the Middle East situation and the Vietnam war. Pearson said they discussed "the very dangerous and difficult international situation."

Neither gave any details.

France earlier this week proposed that the Big Four join in a concerted effort for peace in the Middle East but made no mention of a summit conference.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg seconded the French proposal at the Security Council meeting Wednesday but got a cool reception from Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko. Fedorenko did not reject the proposal outright but said if the United States and Britain really want to relax tensions, they should withdraw their Navy ships from the Mediterranean.

The Russians also rebuffed British Foreign Secretary

George Brown this week when, during a visit to Moscow, he sought to enlist them in a joint four-power peace effort.

Informed sources in Moscow expressed belief that the Kremlin, while putting pressure on the Arabs to avert a war in the Middle East, is determined to play a lone role. The Russians were understood to hold the view that a Middle East war would serve the interest of no nation, but that the Soviet government and the Western powers should exert their influence separately to avert an explosion.

The Kremlin was reported undecided whether to support some sort of U.N. presence in the Middle East or to work out side the world forum in seeking to reduce tensions.

Wires went out to President Lyndon B. Johnson today from Kingston B'nai B'rith, urging the chief executive and the country to stand firmly behind Israel in the current emergency situation in the Middle East.

The organization was the second local group this week to issue statements on the matter as it followed earlier and similar action by the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah.

Mrs. Harvey Kronick and William Klein, presidents of Zephaniah Chapter and Lodge of B'nai B'rith, representing 575 members, called the situation "a case of initiated aggression by the United Arab Republic" and urged the president to "reaffirm the United States commitment to aid Israel in case of aggression on any of her borders by members of the United Arab Republic." The local groups condemned what they called the "Syrian terrorism campaign waged against Israel" and said they regret the action of the United Nations in withdrawing UN Peace Troops "with such haste" from the Gaza and Sinai border. Action should be taken to "preserve the peace for Israel, the United States and the entire world," the wires said.

Locally, the group urged the entire Jewish and non-Jewish members of the Kingston community to write or wire the two Senators and the president on any deep concern felt over the emergency situation.

Similar statements and action came from Mrs. Arthur Landman, representing the 340 members of the local chapter of Hadassah last Tuesday. Her organization also had urged public reaffirmation of America's commitment "to safeguard Israel's integrity and security" in regard to the closing of the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli ships.

Extended forecasts for the area for the next five days: Saturday through Wednesday—of traffic deaths expected throughout the country during the 4-day Memorial weekend—Saturday through Tuesday.

Traffic deaths could number 650 to 750 during that period, the National Safety Council estimates. Howard Pyle, council president, said traffic on a non-holiday weekend of the same length this season could be expected to kill 530. Last year's Memorial Day weekend cost 542 lives in traffic during the 3-day period in the nation.

During the 3-day period in 1966 there were no fatalities on the highways in Ulster County. The 1966 death toll on the area highways was 56 for the 12-month period. As of today, the county traffic death toll stands at 14.

Writing Class Set for Camp

Ruth Ingalls, director of the Creative Arts Camp for girls, announces that Mrs. David M. Clarkson of Woodstock will teach writing at the Wiley Lane, Woodstock camp this summer. A graduate of Bennington College, where she studied under W. H. Auden, Theodore Roethke and Stanley Kunitz, Mrs. Clarkson has published poems in Furioso and Poetry of Chicago, among other periodicals.

She has taught creative writing in close conjunction with English to children, and students at Bennett Junior College, Dutchess Community College and Ulster Community College. Her approach, with younger students particularly, includes a combination of pantomime and dance which the children evolve out of the dramatic possibilities of their own words and the words of other writers. The aim is to tap that native originality and vivid sense of language so often passed over by busy schools. Classes will include children from the ages of six to 17 years.

For information about the camp, telephone Ruth Ingalls.

Knowledge of some of the problems faced by those in the business world help the student develop realistic values and reasonable attitudes, the guidance department says.

Those who are interested in employing students are asked to list their jobs with Mrs. Santonja, in the guidance office, by calling the high school. An effort will be made to match the worker to the job to save the employer's time in needless interviewing.

Three Head Start Projects Aided By $51,992 in Federal Money

Douw S. Meyers Jr., president of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Inc., announced today that Federal funds from the Office of Economic Opportunity in the amount of $51,992 have been approved to conduct three summer Head Start programs in Ulster County.

In addition to the Federal grant the local school districts contributed services and space to the program at the value of $12,516.

"One hundred fifty children will be enrolled in the three programs to be conducted in the Kingston, Onteora and Ellenville School Districts," Meyers said. Classes will be held at the John F. Kennedy School, Kingston, the Ellenville Central School, and the Bennett and Phoenicia Schools in the Onteora School District. Directors of the respective programs will be Robert Corcoran, Mrs. Jane Morpurgo and Michael J. Boyle.

Project Head Start is a Community Action program designed to help economically deprived pre-school children who will enter kindergarten or first grade in the fall. Many of these children have never before thumbed through a book, scribbled with a crayon, owned a toy, or held a flower. They are already far behind more fortunate children when they enter school. Because their experiences have been limited, they are handicapped in their ability to communicate. Many feel a lack of confidence or self-worth and many see people outside the family as strange and threatening. Their health is often poor, and motivation for learning is likely to be limited.

The staff will also include teacher aides and community aides who are not necessarily professionals. Parents of the children are also encouraged to participate in the program and will conduct a special program for themselves at each school.

Need Volunteers

Volunteers are needed to work side-by-side with teachers, social workers, doctors, and other staff. They take children on outings and expeditions in the community, supervise creative play, arts and crafts, and musical activities, read and tell children stories, and talk with them in a way which will help build their self-confidence and help them to understand and use more words with ease.

Volunteers help to recruit children for the program and assure parents of its value, assist in administrative tasks, and help the parents learn to help their children. The volunteer's contribution, and his reward, is to set free each child's curiosity, imagination, and native abilities. For the child, these are the years of wonder and discovery and it is the responsibility of programs such as Head Start to widen his horizons and show him new worlds. Any persons interested in volunteering to help these programs may contact Mrs. Elies Nuse, educational coordinator of UCCAC in Kingston.

The federal grant action was accepted by the Ulster County Community Action Committee after meeting with representatives of the respective school districts. Sub-contracts for actual operation of the programs were distributed to the schools for execution by the proper authorities.

ONE GRAND GRANT—A check for $1,000 is presented to Dr. James A. Frost (l) acting president of State University College, New Paltz by IBM representative Martin P. Faherty (center), marketing representative, Poughkeepsie, and W. H. McCullen, manager of personnel administration, Kingston. The grant was awarded to the college by IBM in accordance with its policy of helping institutions cover educational costs for outstanding corporation employees who are attending classes full-time. Fred A. Fink, 6 Parker La., Shokan an employee at Poughkeepsie, is a junior at New Paltz.

SUMMER PLANS—Head Start summer programs are discussed by (seated) Mrs. Jane Morpurgo, Ellenville director with her son Jon; Mrs. Elies Anger Nuse, Ulster County Community Action Committee education co-ordinator; Stanley Leyden, UCCAC executive director and Douw S. Meyers Jr., president; (standing) Raymond Monfett, John F. Kennedy School teacher; Michael J. Boyle, Onteora director and Robert Corcoran, Kingston director. Programs for deprived children will be conducted at Ellenville, Onteora and Kennedy Schools. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr).

2 Groups Probe Railroad Crash

The collision of the New York Central Railroad trains Monday in Manhattan which claimed the lives of six trainmen, including Charles W. Meuser Jr. of Highland and Robert E. Orr of Poughkeepsie will be investigated by state and federal agencies.

According to an Associated Press report the National Transportation Safety Board announced Thursday that it would study the crash. The investigation would be the first by the newly established board. Earlier Thursday, the State Public Service Commission announced that it would investigate the crash and make whatever recommendations were required.

John H. Reed, former governor of Maine and one of the members on the National Transportation Safety Board, has been serving as an official observer for the board during preliminary investigations of the crash.

Reed will serve as chairman of the board of inquiry. A public hearing will be scheduled, a board spokesman said.

Rail Deficit Up

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The New Haven railroad reported today a $7,406,501 deficit for the first four months of 1967 — much larger than the $4,995,966 deficit for January-through-April period a year ago. Trustees of the bankrupt railroad said the deficit for April was $1,635,248, as against a deficit of $817,904 for the same month in 1966.

Arab Nations Received More

Review Aid to Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has sent more than $2 billion in aid since World War II to five Arab nations involved in the current Middle East crisis with neighboring Israel.

That's nearly twice the dollar value of all forms of U.S. government aid to Israel.

But unlike the Arab nations, Israel has in the United States private sources of aid and financing that have provided the Jewish homeland funds at least equaling the total of U.S. government help to Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Yemen and the United Arab Republic.

Military aid of $227.8 million included in the total for Israel's Arab neighbors has gone almost entirely to Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Most of Jordan's $66 million has been outright grants of money and excess American military equipment. But government records show substantial portions of the $517.2 million in economic aid for Jordan has gone into construction of roads and facilities planned to bolster the kingdom's defense position.

A decade ago the United States took over from Britain most of the burden of supporting Jordan. American support has continued, a handbook of the Agency for International Development states because of "the danger that Jordan's dismemberment might produce violence throughout the area."

Military aid for Jordan compared with $27.6 million for Israel, all in credit assistance to help Israel buy arms.

Saudi Arabia has received $161.7 million in military assistance against $47.4 of economic aid. But 60 per cent of the total has been in the form of loans or credits.

Only $100,000 of the $73.3 million aid total for Syria has been for military purposes and more than one-half has been in loans.

All of the $41.8 million for Yemen has been outright gifts, with less than $50,000 allotted for military aid. U.S. aid to Yemen ended this spring, after the state arrested two American officials, who later were released on bail and then left the country.

Egypt has some of her best troops in Yemen, which has received an estimated $140 million in economic and defense support assistance from Red China and the Soviet Union since 1957. The United States has aided Egypt to the tune of $1.13 billion — or more than half the total assistance to the Arab states of the Middle East.

All of this aid has been economic, and most has gone to Egypt through the Food for Peace program. Sale in Egypt of this food, mostly grains, has in turn generated local currency loans to the government of President Gamal Abdel Nasser and lesser amounts to Egyptian private industry.

As in many countries, these loans are repaid or credited to the account of the United States in local currencies and do not come back to Washington in the form of dollars.

Food shipments to Egypt ceased last June, but technical assistance valued at about $1.4 million continues. Also still under way is a $9.5-million program of feeding people, conducted through voluntary agencies working with the U.S. government.

Attends 63rd TB Convention In Pittsburgh

E. Robert Johnson, executive director of the Ulster County TB and Health Association attended the 63rd annual meeting sessions of the National Tuberculosis Association, and the 55th annual business and program sessions of the National Conference of Tuberculosis Workers May 21 through Thursday at Pittsburgh, Pa. ### LONGER, SAFER HOLIDAY

Memorial Day signals the beginning of the busiest driving season of the year. There will be more traffic on the highways in this area from now until Labor Day than any other three-month period. Vacations, picnics, just-out-for-a-ride trips and other summertime travel will crowd our highways, often beyond their capabilities.

The big American holiday trek can be expected to get underway at the close of business today for all who can get an early start. There is prospect for many of a long weekend holiday because Memorial Day falls on Tuesday and it will be possible for many to include Monday in the holiday period.

Because of this lengthened period, it should be possible for motorists to devote more time to motor travel. They can reduce speeds, take frequent breaks on long trips and observe other safeguards and precautions such as giving the car a safety check before starting out on the journey.

Thus the holiday can be a safe one, which is the hope of all of us. At the approach of every holiday, we shudder at the thought of the slaughter that ensues in the pressures of traffic.

'68 CARS TO COST MORE

Last year, it will be remembered, the auto industry raised car prices by $50-odd a car and all car companies said the increases did not cover the added costs.

There will be another story on the '68 models. New anti-smog devices to cut down air pollution and safety factors built into the new models to conform to the new federal safety standards will become standard equipment on the new 1968 models. These items cost $75 to $100 when installed as optional equipment. Detroit analysts anticipate price increases ranging between $100 to $150 a car on the 1968 models to cover these items when they become standard equipment.

At the recent annual meeting of Ford stockholders, Henry Ford II said that there will be a substantial rise in the cost of their cars for the research and development of production costs of the safety items. In addition, labor and material costs are climbing substantially, and the auto industry faces another round of negotiations this year over wages and hours.

Industry in general is facing the economic realities today. Higher wages and materials costs are pressures that cannot be met except by higher prices. The automobile industry happens to have seen the writing on the wall in time to warn the public of what to expect this fall. It is acting in self-defense, because the industry sees clearly that federal safety requirements plus wages and material rises will leave the industry no other choice.

CAUSE AND CURE OF ACCIDENTS

With more than 50,000 deaths a year and $10 billion lost annually in traffic accidents, it is not surprising that the new Department of Transportation should give top priority to a program for finding the cause and cure of such accidents.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., director of the National Traffic and Highway Safety Bureau, will direct the research. A physician who is particularly interested in the role of alcohol in the steadily rising traffic toll, Dr. Haddon has also expressed interest in developing medical services for the injured. He has proposed the use of helicopters to rush injured to hospitals, as is done so successfully in Vietnam.

The range of study indicates the many phases that contribute to highway accidents as follows: Safety performance of new and used motor vehicles, with emphasis on handling characteristics that influence the likelihood of crashes; occupants' protection when crashes occur; discovering the role of factors, such as alcohol, in crashes; development of methods for training traffic and vehicle safety experts and the role they might play in safety programs and states develop.

Before developing a test vehicle to determine what occurs in a highway crash, Dr. Haddon is studying existing test vehicles. The crashproof car is the ultimate aim of all such experimental vehicles.

A new attempt to stimulate medium sized political gifts has begun in Congress. Senator James B. Pearson, Kansas Republican, would give a tax credit of 50 per cent to a maximum of $10 on individual contributions or a maximum deduction of $500 per year per tax return. That would proliferate political gifts, if people are involved enough.

The judgment of a $1.5 million awarded Timothy M. Bleak, 34, bachelor Los Angeles mortgage executive, for injuries suffered when a tree fell on his car, leaving him paralyzed from the neck down, is believed to be the highest damage judgment ever made. Money cannot repay his loss.

A federal manpower corporation to recruit, transport, house and protect the health of migratory workers was suggested by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz in testimony before a Senate subcommittee. The pain would bring order to a much abused but necessary mobile labor force.

Cradle to the Grave

Henry J. Taylor Says

Garrison Traces Case to Bay of Pigs

NEW ORLEANS—District Attorney Jim Garrison, widely buffeted by the press as a buffoon who has no case, is no buffoon to this writer. And the case he laid out to me contains several impressive features—provided you have studied the Warren Commission Report.

That's the first rub. The Report's 26 volumes of hearings include 3,154 exhibits, the testimony of 552 witnesses, and transcripts, reports or affidavits covering 26,550—yes, 26,550—interviews by FBI, Secret Service and other investigative agencies. The Report has 17,815 pages, totals 10.4 million words and weighs 65 pounds. But it's impossible to evaluate Garrison's points unless you've done this homework.

To comprehend his claims at all you have to rethink the whole case. Consider the Commission as serving chiefly as a jury. As a jury it reached a decision on the evidence obtained by the investigative agencies. The depth and scope of the work these agencies did is astounding, although little appreciated. But the conclusions are those of the Commission, subject to the same arguments you might apply if you disagree with a jury's finding.

In the Commission's judgment Lee Harvey Oswald, a pro-Communist, killed President Kennedy, acted alone in doing so, and there was no conspiracy. Mr. Garrison begins with a totally different approach.

"I was forced to," he told me, "as various pieces of evidence began coming in here in New Orleans."

Some of these pieces came from a miserable collection of hoodlums whom Garrison calls "terrible witnesses I am confronted with." But other pieces that appear to contradict the Commission's judgment stand on their own merits. And several of them put the fat in the fire.

All available evidence caused the Commission to conclude that Oswald did not know Jack Ruby, who killed him, and arrested New Orleans businessman Clay L. Shaw contends that he knew neither Oswald nor Ruby.

Garrison turned to Volume XVI, Page 58, of the Commission's Report. Oswald kept a diary. It is filled with cryptic figures and notations, including references to guns and microdots, the method of microscopic photographic reproduction. Page 58 shows a note Oswald made: "P.O. Box 19106," the published report of which brought me back here to New Orleans. For Clay Shaw's notebook, seized when his home was searched on the day (March) Garrison arrested Shaw, contains the identical note.

Garrison demonstrated for me the simple code that translates "P.O. Box 19106" into Whitehall 1-5601. Garrison found that Ruby had an unpublished telephone number in Dallas in 1963. And that number was Whitehall 1-5601.

This development would connect Oswald with both Shaw and Ruby.

Moreover, by the same simple code, Oswald consistently employs 4900 and 1300 as routine masking number. Garrison pointed out to me that Oswald lived here on Magazine Street's 4900 block; Shaw lives on Dauphin Street's 1300 block. Shaw's defense attorneys scoff at the code. But Garrison demonstrated it practically at random from Oswald's diary.

The man Garrison now wants most to find is a Latin, likewise revealed, whom Garrison has traced back to the Bay of Pigs debacle.

In fact, Garrison traces his whole case back to the Bay of Pigs. "You have to start there or you get no place in the New Orleans evidence," he said.

Although I must oversimplify it herein, this will be his contention to the court: That Cuban anti-Castro refugees, bitterly disillusioned by the Bay of Pigs debacle, including some employed in by our Central Intelligence Agency, took out their anger on President Kennedy—especially after his emotionally stirring promise to the Freedom Fighters in Miami "to return their flag to you in a free Cuba" proved not to be the U.S. plan at all.

That Oswald was produced as a billboard character "who flaunted his pro-Communist fervor and thus increased the possibility that the wrath of America might precipitate real action for our freedom of Cuba."

The conspirators were playing a double game: Retribution against President Kennedy and crystallization of the hatred of Castro.

Mr. Garrison, can well be wrong, but certain parts of his New Orleans evidence will require a great deal of explaining sooner or later.

Middle East Adds New Pressure on LBJ

WASHINGTON — War in the Middle East would trap President Johnson in political cross-currents at home which are not present in the Vietnam conflict. Besides them, his re-election problem with Vietnam is almost shadow boxing.

Two of the most powerful elements in the unique Johnson consensus are the American-Jewish community, whose support he inherited from his Democratic predecessors, and the far-reaching oil interests he had assiduously cultivated in Texas. They do not clash on the Vietnam issue.

But Jews everywhere have a commitment to Israel and the American oil power is intertwined with Arab-owned oil. The two are inherently at odds in the situation provoked by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt. The generally muted comment in Congress testifies to the new complexities as the President embarks upon a fresh exercise in statecraft involving war.

All politicians recognize that the American Jewish community is politically sophisticated and capable of a political independence far beyond that of most voting blocs with which they must deal. Democrats in particular have leaned upon its advanced social and welfare concepts. Its heavy financial support for Democrats has been their only real counterpoise against the predilection of business and finance for Republicans.

The pressures on the President regarding Vietnam have been largely moral and intellectual. He has disliked them but has not so far felt it necessary to meet them on their own ground. It has been felt that he would deal with them next year by enveloping them in the folds of the American flag.

The new pressures have a cutting edge, and there is some tendency on the part of the President's critics to let him know they perceive it. The Soviet Union also seems to think that a few taunts are in order, though the official view here is that in practice it will be restrained.

The United Nations comes into its own again, as the President has put the immediate problem there. This, incidentally, means that the resignation of U. N. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, long rumored here, will be postponed. Possibly he can come up with a major success which in the end could lessen his unhappiness in that neglected corner and might even give him leverage against the State Department in Vietnam policy. Senators frankly say that they hope the Middle East will arouse Johnson from his absorption in the Asian area and teach him the perils of so large a military commitment to one small country.

There is no present explanation why Nasser's actions came as a surprise to Washington. Blame is attached here to Secretary General U. Thant for so readily withdrawing U. N. forces from the Gaza Strip; there is even a suggestion that he wanted to jolt Johnson into recognizing that Vietnam was not the world.

The new crisis also jolts the complacent who felt that Vietnam was settling down somehow and that neither side would go further, so the end was in sight. Evidence was scanty, but the belief was nonetheless prevalent.

Ask Separate Justice Branch To Control Executive Powers

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Sooner or later the Department of Justice will have to be set apart as an independent agency so that it will not fail to prosecute "civil disobedience" when practiced by an executive department of the government.

The House of Representatives this very week has administered a rebuke to the U.S. Office of Education for blatantly disregarding the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which forbids the use of "guidelines" such as have been issued to correct racial imbalance. The 1964 law says:

"Desegregation shall not mean the assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance. The same law specifies that the withholding of federal funds by any agency is to be handled by regulations approved by the President. But the record shows that the President never approved all the "guidelines" promulgated as regulations by the Office of Education and used as the basis for denying money to schools which fail to comply.

Now the House of Representatives has taken the first step to strike back at the misuse of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. By a voice vote, the House adopted on Tuesday an amendment to the education bill which provides that any measures taken to abolish the dual systems of Public School attendance must be applied uniformly throughout the country and not just in a few states in the South.

The present "guidelines" call for certain percentages of Negro students to be transferred each year to schools whose enrollment is predominantly white. If a school district fails to comply, it can be punished by the withholding of federal funds. The "regulations" not only set percentages but utilize other criteria including inferences derived from reading the history of dual systems.

Since the "regulations" have not been applied uniformly, Representative Edith Green of Oregon, Democrat, who is a staunch supporter of "civil rights," sponsored the amendment that was approved by the House. Another amendment which was also accepted by the House declares that any school district which is alleged to have failed to meet these percentages or "guidelines" must be given a public hearing before any government funds are withheld.

The principles involved in these proposed changes are imbedded in the constitution itself. Thus, the Fourteenth Amendment declares that there must be "equal protection of the laws" and also that no person shall be deprived of "life, liberty or property without due process of law." Certainly states or cities should not be deprived of "civil rights."

Various attempts have been made to evade the purpose of the civil-rights statute. Some of the school districts in the South have been trying to circumvent the orders to "desegregate" public schools. Likewise, agencies here have been seeking to impose, without authorization of law, punishment for alleged violations of "guidelines" which are sanctioned neither by law nor by official regulations.

This is why the House of Representatives is balking at the passage of more appropriation bills for education until some of these points are clarified. When a federal agency sets up its own "guidelines" and calls them the equivalent of regulations, though they have not been given public approval by the president, this is a kind of "civil disobedience" against which there is no redress except through lengthy litigation in the courts or by Congressional amendment of existing laws.

The question arises whether new laws supplementing the Civil Rights Act of 1964 will also be ignored by executive agencies. Punishment is not being meted out for such instances of "civil disobedience," since the Department of Justice is operated under the present administration—as it has been in the past—as a political arm of the government. It decides what cases will be prosecuted. Rarely have there been any preventive steps taken to cause an executive board or division of a government department to refrain from engaging in any action that disregards existing law.

Claims Nasser

Unpredictable

In Mideast Rift

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's enough in Gamal Abdel Nasser's background to scare anyone who tangles with him because, after his first big venture, how could anyone, including Nasser, be sure he knows what he's doing?

It's one reason why this Egyptian president's antics in the Middle East are unpredictable.

Nasser was 34 and a major in 1952 when he and a small group of other Egyptian army officers, fed up with the decadence of King Farouk, decided to throw him out and suddenly did it. They had pulled off a bloodless revolution and then didn't know what to do with it. Nasser and the others hadn't planned beyond getting rid of Farouk.

After that happened, they thought, others would come along with ideas for running and reforming Egypt. Nasser excluded their dilemma in a book he wrote later, "The Philosophy of Revolution."

"I thought we were only the pioneers and commanders," he said, "that we would be in the front for a few hours and that we would soon be followed by the solid masses marching to the goal." But they weren't.

The officers set up a Revolutionary Council, headed by Brig. Gen. Mohammed Naguib. The badly needed reforms were begun, but slowly. And then suddenly Naguib was thrown out and Nasser replaced him.

He has been in charge ever since, first as premier, then as president. Two years after taking over he got into another jam, of his own making, although he came out of it smelling like a rose, no thanks to his own wit.

He wanted to build a colonial project, the Aswan Dam, to help Egyptian farming. He needed a lot of help, asked the United States for it, got a promise of it, and tried to play both ends against the middle.

He asked the Soviet Union to get in on the deal. He got very friendly with the Red Chinese. And he proclaimed himself a neutralist. By this time he had irritated the Eisenhower administration so much that the promised help to him was canceled.

Not long afterwards he seized the Suez Canal. This irritated the British, French and Israelis so much they invaded Egypt. Nasser's army, hardly more than a Cockey's army, was no match for the invaders.

If it had kept out, Nasser was finished. But the United Nations intervened — backed for a change by the United States and the Soviet Union together—and demanded the invaders clear out. They did. Nasser has been running the canal ever since, and to practically everyone's surprise successfully. But Egypt under Nasser is a long way from the Promised Land. He has had to get help from many directions.

Meanwhile, he has lost caste among the other leaders of the Arab world. If he could get into another rummish with Israel, and somehow come out of it intact, he figured to regain some of his lost prestige.

At least this is one of the guesses for his belligerence now. But it's no more than a guess since he may not have done any more planning than with Farouk.

If he had just rattled a saber, rolled a drum, and mobilized as if going to war with Israel, that would have been one thing. But he demanded that the United Nations' peace-keeping force, located on the Israeli-Egyptian border, be withdrawn.

It was. But this got the United Nations into the mess and its Security Council met Wednesday. The result of this first meeting was zero, which is not unusual. The United Nations fiddled around a bit, too, at the time of the Suez Crisis.

But, since the Soviet Union has backed him so far, it raises some questions.

No. 1—Is Nasser's performance the result of impulse?

No. 2—Is this one thought out for reasons not yet clear?

No. 3—Did the Soviet Union put him up to it for reasons that looked good to the U.S.S.R. and Nasser?

WASHINGTON (NEA)—

A good proportion of those people who oppose the U. S. bombing of North Vietnam are fundamentally against any sort of bombing as somewhat inflicting a worse death than it is caused by other means in war.

Since this is an emotional feeling, it really cannot and probably should not be argued with.

It is quite something else, however, to move from expressions of abhorrence over bombing to unsupportable arguments with regard to what it is doing or has done in past wars and this one.

Most recently, some critics of the present bombing, including a few senators, have contended that what happened to the British people in World War II proves that bombing "only stiffens morale" and can have little telling effect in war.

The story of that British experience would surprise some of these critics.

Over-all, counting every phase of the air battles and the bombing over Britain, this celebrated assault covered the period from July, 1940, to May, 1941.

Those Americans old enough to have lived through the period may recall that millions of ordinary Britons in London, Liverpool, Coventry, Bristol Plymouth and other cities were indeed doughty and courageous under the relentless rain of high explosives and incendiaries delivered by Nazi bombers.

At the height of the assault, Germany raided London for 57 successive nights. An average of 200 bombers a night droned over the city.

But the glow of admiration the free world placed around that horrifying chapter has tended to obscure some important facts.

In the entire July to May period, some 42,000 Britons were killed in Nazi raids and related activity. London itself, blitzed and battered and burned, suffered 21,000 dead.

Elsewhere in those writings Churchill adds:

"It is difficult to compare the ordeal of the Londoners . . . with that of the Germans in the last three years of the war. In this latter phase the bombs were much more powerful and the raids far more intense."

Churchill is perhaps a sufficient authority on this subject, since it was his ringing words, delivered months before the heavy German assaults, that did more than German bombs to lift and sustain British morale at the war's turning point.

Senator Joseph McCarthy's warning about the communists in our State Department such as Lattimore awakened the American people to the threat of a communist take over of America. Therefore, he was hated by the Reds and Red lovers. They smeared and vilified him (as they do every commie hater).

To the people of Ulster County I say do not believe for one moment that the Reds are "mellowing" and watch the pseudo liberals for they can be more destructive than the known communists.

19-Year-Old Held in Probe Of School Fire

ARCADE, N. Y. (AP)—A 19-year-old man stood charged today with third-degree arson, accused of causing a fire that roared through a school he once attended.

Thomas P. Hartlev of Arcade was arrested Thursday by Wyoming County and village police within hours after flames, smoke and water caused more than $50,000 in damage to the elementary wing of the Pioneer Central School in this community 35 miles southeast of Buffalo.

Hartlev, a former pupil at the school and now unemployed, was sent to the county jail in Warsaw in lieu of $10,000 bail. A preliminary hearing before Judge John S. Coanable of Wyoming County Court was set for June 1.

The elementary wing of the sprawling, two-story brick building was engulfed in flames after, investigators charged, Hartlev used a cigarette lighter to start fires in a canvas trash container, a broom closet and a collection of art supplies.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to start a blaze in a vent-fan on the opposite side of the building, Sheriff Dalton W. Carney said.

Carney and Police Chief Lloyd R. Warner said the entry was made between 1:30 and 2 a. m. Firemen responded to an alarm shortly before 6 a. m. and brought the fire under control in about two hours. They said signs of vandalism also were seen in the building.

Insurance investigators did not release official estimates of the loss, but one said it undoubtedly would exceed $50,000. The elementary wing was built in 1954.

The fire forced the school closed to its 1,450 pupils Thursday.

Those in the fifth through 12th grades returned to classes today in the undamaged section of the building. Classes for the lower grades will be resumed by next Wednesday in rented quarters. George C. Crawford, district principal, said.

Hartlev's address is 10 Glenwood Drive.

Dear Abby

Husband Has 'Papa Myopia'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a teen-age daughter who is absolutely miserable about the size of her nose. She has been taunted and teased about it ever since she can remember.

I have been in correspondence with a reputable plastic surgeon, who will schedule her in and he thinks she's "mature" enough.

My problem is my husband. He thinks our daughter is "beautiful" the way she is and doesn't need that kind of operation. He blames me for taking her side and says if it doesn't come out right it will be my fault. We don't expect miracles, but almost anything would be an improvement over what she has now. What can I do, Abby?

HER MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: Your husband has "Papa myopia." If your daughter has been taunted and teased about her nose, she "needs" the operation to give her the self-confidence so necessary to a teen-ager. Take your daughter to the plastic surgeon and get his opinion. (If he's reputable, he will be honest.) I vote with you and your daughter.

DEAR ABBY: Auggie and I have gone together for 2 years and we planned to announce our engagement officially with a ring at the wedding of Auggie's sister next month.

When we told Auggie's mother of our plan she vetoed it on the spot, saying it would take all the attention away from the bride. She asked us to announce it before or after the wedding, but not the same day.

Abby, it wasn't our intention to take any attention away from the bride. We just thought that since all Auggie's relatives and friends would be at the wedding it would be an ideal time to make our announcement. I am terribly disappointed. What do you think of Auggie's mother? What should we do?

DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: I think Auggie's mother was out of line, but in the interest of future family harmony, respect her wishes. (P.S. There is a lot to be said for keeping one's mouth shut.)

DEAR ABBY: I am so disgusted with myself I could just die. I sent my 10-year-old daughter off to school with no breakfast because she was slow in getting dressed.

She was crying when she left, and I shouted after her that I didn't care if she ever came back! Abby, I acted like a maniac, yelling and screaming and banging things around, and all because she was a little behind schedule, which isn't such a serious crime.

After she left I sat down and cried. I feel so sorry for that child. She is really a sweet girl and I shouldn't be so hard on her, but it seems like I'm always picking on her for something. I am so ashamed of myself. What's wrong with me? Are there other mothers who act this way?

ASHAMED: DEAR ASHAMED: Yes, there are other mothers who act that way, but they blame the child. Few are wise enough to admit that the trouble could be with them. When did you last have a thorough check up? See your doctor. Perhaps our nerves could use a tonic.

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet four bits that the jerk who complained because his wife went to bed with rollers in her hair every night goes without shaving from Friday until Monday — unless he has some social engagement on the weekend. So who does he shave for? His wife, or the people he works with? And he probably drools over the dolls who spend 2 hours on their hair and make-up every morning. These are the ones who want to have their cheesecake and eat it, too. Defensively, J.M.H. IN DALLAS

Quotes Rocky On Retirement At End of Term

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The newspaper El Nacional has quoted Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as saying he "will retire from politics" at the end of his term in 1970.

Rockefeller arrived in Caracas Wednesday with his wife for a week's rest at the Monte Sacro ranch in Chirigua, Carabobo State, 50 miles southeast of here.

When asked at the airport if he would run again, the newspaper said Rockefeller replied, "Oh, no, in three years—in 1970—I will retire from politics."

"I've already spent 25 years in politics and it's time for new faces," the governor was quoted as saying in the account. "One must learn to retire in time."

In New York City the report caught Republicans by surprise. Acting Gov. Malcolm Wilson, who has served as lieutenant governor since Rockefeller took office in 1959, said in Manhattan:

"The governor has served the public magnificently in every capacity. If the report from Caracas is accurate, then I fervently hope that he will change his mind."

House Votes to Extend College Draft Status

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House has voted to extend draft deferments of college undergraduates after a rowdy, late-night session where tempers flared and charges flew.

The controversial college deferment issue evoked the sharpest debate as the House voted 362 to 9 to extend for four years the existing military draft law, due to expire June 30.

The House-passed version clashes with a Senate bill that would give the President broad authority to revise draft policy. Another difference is the Houses insistence that Congress have the final say over whether a lottery-style selection system can be used — as President Johnson desires.

The differences must be resolved in a Senate-House conference committee.

One member after another denounced as disgraceful Thursday night's proceedings, but the majority of those present — tired after a marathon session the night before — repeatedly voted to limit debate and shout down amendments.

By the time Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., got the floor with his amendment to end student deferments, debate on the issue had been limited to one minute. "This is a most disgraceful way to legislate on a bill of this importance," Pike told his colleagues.

He said projecting current Vietnam war statistics would leave 48,000 U. S. dead in four years — a normal college undergraduate period. "In time of war there is no justification in saying to one group of citizens, the wealthier, they can postpone their risk of being one of the 48,000 dead."

Pike's amendment lost on a standing vote, 140 to 41. Rep. Charles S. Joelson, D-N.J., said, "This is not a debate. It is a travesty, a burlesque. We are asking these young men to give up two years of their lives and we won't give them two days."

Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, inquired, "Can anyone tell us whether the engines are hot on the junketing plane to Paris?"

This was a pointed reference to plans of six Armed Services Committee members about to leave for the International Air Show in Paris. Three others are going to Saigon. The House met into the night Wednesday and Thursday to clean up business before a Memorial Day break.

Another major dispute was over extending the draft law two years instead of four. It lost 160 to 77.

The House bill would leave to a new national manpower resources board the setting of guidelines for deferring college graduate students. The President asked for authority to make this determination, but indicated he favored deferring only medical and dental graduate students. He had not taken a stand on undergraduates.

Fire Kayoes Power for Time In Hudson Area

Much of the uptown business section of Hudson was blacked out Thursday morning for over an hour after a power pole fire. About 1,150 customers of Niagara-Mohawk were affected.

The fire started atop a 40 foot pole. Just as the fire appeared out the cross arm fell on several high voltage wires causing a short circuit which caused the blackout.

Man, 2 Women Killed in Crash

HOMER, N.Y. (AP)—A man and two women were killed early today when their automobile slammed into a tree beside Route 90, about seven miles west of this community south of Syracuse.

State Police identified the dead as Alfred Flesher, 24, of Homer; Mrs. Judy Reichard, 23, Cortland; and Miss Connie Johnson, about 21, of nearby Little York.

The accident occurred in the hamlet of Summer Hill.

All were residents of Cortland County. Mrs. Reichard's address was 144 Port Watson St., Flesher's RD2 and Miss Johnson's Box 4.

All three were employed by the SCM Corp. typewriter plant in nearby Groton.

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—An arsonist with a flair for telephoning has set 32 cars afire, investigators said.

"I just happen to be a guy with a couple of books of matches," a man told the Fire Department by telephone Thursday.

Later, in another call, he announced "I'm all through for the night. I'm getting tired." Damage from the fires was estimated at about $100,000.

Mental Health Bus Trip Set For May 31st

Maintaining contact by family and friends with a hospital patient who is receiving treatment for emotional illness, is considered of utmost importance by medical authorities. Unfortunately, Middletown State Hospital is not easily accessible from much of Ulster County by public transportation, although it is to this hospital that persons from Ulster County needing psychiatric inpatient treatment customarily go.

In order to facilitate visits to patients by relatives and friends, the Ulster County Association for Mental Health runs a chartered bus regularly once a month to Middletown State Hospital. This Association is a voluntary organization which works on many levels for better mental health. It is supported entirely by voluntary contributions, and is a member of the Community Chest.

The bus this month will run Wednesday, May 31, leaving Park Diner in Kingston at 11:45 a. m., and returning by 5:30 p. m. The bus also stops in Rosendale at The Elms at 12 noon, and in New Paltz at the Grand Union, corner of Main and North Chestnut Streets, at 12:10 p. m. It will also make other stops en route to Middletown, by special advance request to Mrs. Diana Geiger, executive secretary, Ulster County Association for Mental Health, 27 East O'Reilly Street.

The office is open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and maintains an information and referral service and a variety of community educational services including films and printed materials.

Rondout Valley High School Landscape Class made its annual field trip yesterday with Orvil E. Norman acting as guide. The class of about 20 boys was under the charge of the Landscaping Instructor, Walter Elmore.

Norman, owner of Kingston Garden Center, took them through his store showing them how soil tests are made and explained the differences between various types of fertilizers and types of grass seeds.

Norman then directed them to Kolder's Nursery in order to show the difference between evergreen trees and deciduous trees as well as various types of woody shrubbery. From there he led them to one of the homes in Rolling Meadows to show the outcome of a planned landscape which the Garden Center planned from beginning to end.

VFW Groups Note Events Interest High For Memorial Observance

Memorial Day observances and a joint installation of new officers will take place this holiday weekend by members of Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW, and its Ladies Auxiliary.

The Commander and Auxiliary president, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Banach, have urged all members to participate in the full Memorial Day ceremonies beginning with attendance at 8 a. m. Mass at St. Joseph's Church, Glasco, requested by Gold Star Mothers of that hamlet. Prayers for the dead, a wreath laying ceremony, volley and taps will follow the Mass at the monument outside the church to be conducted by Monsignor Archibald Damm and VFW members.

Upon return to the village, VFW Post and Auxiliary members will hold ceremonies at their own monument at VFW Hall, Livingston Street, and will then assemble at the Legion Monument at 9:30 a. m. to join in the American Legion wreath laying ceremonies and parade. Climaxing the morning, members will hold services at the Maine Monument, Malden-on-Hudson.

Makes Statement
"On this day especially dedicated to the honoring of the war dead, all veterans and their families should consider it an obligation to throw aside apathy and show the strength of true, loyal Americans," says the Commander.

Joint installation of new officers of the Post and Auxiliary will be held Saturday, May 27, at the VFW Hall, starting at 7:30 p. m. A social evening follows at 9 p. m. at the hall with a live band and refreshments. Auxiliary members are reminded to bring salads and should contact Mrs. Mary Breithaupt for further information.

During the recent business meeting of the Auxiliary, it was voted to donate a $5 award to eighth social studies grade graduate of the Saugerties School and to an eighth grade girl graduate of St. Mary of the Snow. The Post donates a similar award to two eighth grade boys. A $5 donation was also voted for use in sending packages to servicemen in Vietnam through the Ulster-Hose Company project.

Elect Officers At Woman's Club

First annual meeting of the Woman's Club of Saugerties was held recently in Dutch Arms Chapel of Reformed Church of Saugerties.

The following members were elected to office for the 1967-68 club year: Mrs. Robert Anderson, president; Mrs. John Janacek, first vice president; Miss Jeanette Gustin, second vice president; Mrs. Gerald Stiphens, treasurer; Mrs. Patrick Buonfiglio, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Edward Jabs, recording secretary; and Mrs. Joseph W. Benjamin, corresponding secretary.

Department chairmen were elected as follows: art, Mrs. William Hayes; home, Mrs. Stanley Wyman; international affairs, Mrs. Richard Redder; and public affairs, Mrs. John Gorecki.

After election of officers, club members, under direction of Mrs. William Ashmore, presented a humorous skit. Those taking part in the skit were the Mmes. John Washburn, Edward Hulme, Robert Anderson, Jerome Milosek, James O'Reilly, Robert Blanchard, Gerald Stiphens, Gordon Brannon, Albert Curl, F. Caffrey, Elmer Bratten, Robert Cole and Nicholas Pinto.

The club will resume its regular meetings on Thursday, Sept. 28, at Dutch Arms Chapel at 8:15 p. m. Following installation of officers, Murray Weiss, director of the Day Care Center for Retarded Children, will speak to the group.

All members are reminded that dues for the coming year must be paid to Mrs. Patrick Buonfiglio, Seylers Terrace, by July 15.

Columbiettes Set Float in Parade

The May meeting of Saugerties Columbiettes was one of the busiest of the entire year, starting with election of officers. President Eva Sweeney reported that the $100 donation to the Benedictine Hospital building fund was gratefully accepted by the hospital auxiliary. She also told of the decision to purchase a $25 contribution ticket from the hospital auxiliary on behalf of the Columbiettes, which met with everyone's approval.

Plans for a July 4 float were made and many members volunteered to work on the decorations. The tentative date for the eighth anniversary celebration (possibly in the form of a dinner and dance) is Sept. 30 at the Flamingo. A motion was made and seconded that the Columbiettes make small tray favors for patients at Dale's Sanitarium, once a month to coincide with various holidays.

After the meeting, refreshments were served and, as an added attraction, Eleanor Rothe introduced members to the art of textile painting. The June meeting will include a covered dish supper and members should bring a contribution of "goodies."

Make Class Tour Of Folly Farms

Riding out into the neighboring countryside for a tour of the Folly Morgan Horse Farm in Zena recently were members of the Saugerties Community Day Nursery. Transported by their teacher, Mrs. Lunn, the youngsters and some mothers viewed the horses, dogs and donkeys at the farm with interest. While there, they played with the donkeys and new puppies; were amazed at the softness of the hair and wetness of the tongues of the animals. Two new colts attracted a great deal of attention.

Miss Anne Bentzen, owner of the Zena horse farm, and Kate Hopkins, her assistant, were on hand to answer questions and instruct the youngsters on how to act when near animals.

The group also enjoyed refreshments at the home of a classmate, David Chase, who lives across from the farm, and then returned to the school at Dutch Arms Chapel, John Street, to share impressions of this latest field trip.

Summertime Hours

The office of Saugerties Village Clerk James V. Gage will begin operating on a summer schedule shortly. Announcement has been made that during the months of June, July and August, the office will be open from 8 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p. m. on Mondays through Fridays.

Interest High In Seniors Club

Saugerties residents interested in forming a Senior Citizens' Club held an organizational meeting recently at Dutch Chapel of Reformed Church of Saugerties. After an interlude of piano music by Mrs. Edward Altenau, Mrs. Yvonne Ostrander, organizer of Saugerties Neighborhood Service Center, the sponsoring organization, spoke to the group. She explained it is felt Saugerties needs a Senior Citizens' Club because of the large number of elderly residents.

She said the purpose of the club would not be purely social, since members would have an opportunity to help the community. Services such as visiting the elderly who are bedridden, repairing toys for needy children, and serving as nursery school aids as "foster grandparents" were mentioned.

Keynote speaker at the meeting was the Rev. Frank Gollnick, a retired minister, who is a full-time volunteer with the Ulster County Community Action Committee, and who is in the process of organizing Senior Citizens' Club throughout the county. He described groups which have been started in other parts of the county, and stressed that Senior Citizens' Club can become vital parts of their communities, as well as offering members a chance to enrich and revitalize their own lives.

At the conclusion of the Rev. Mr. Gollnick's talk, a committee was formed to organize the Saugerties club. The committee is composed of: Mr. Francis Bayer, chairman; Mrs. Rosetta Widdis, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Hymen Harnett and Thomas Thornton.

Next meeting of the club will be held Thursday, June 1, at 1 p. m. at the church hall of Reformed Church, Main Street. Dessert and coffee will be served. All interested Saugerties residents are invited to attend. Transportation will be arranged for those who need it. For further information, call the Saugerties Neighborhood Service Center between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

Harder to Head Local Lions Club

New slate of officers for Saugerties Lions Club was elected Monday night at Flamingo Restaurant. President Stuart Buchanan presided at the meeting in which Frank Costello, representing the nominating committee of Bud Banks, Albert Giannotti, and himself moved adoption of the following slate of officers:

President, Kenneth Harder; first vice-president, Frank Greco; second vice-president, William Farrell; third vice-president, Robert Campbell; secretary, Robert Anderson; treasurer, D. Hunter; lion-tamer, Irving Dreishpoon; tail-twister, Paul Pavlovich.

Dr. Rodney Ball, charter member of the club, was proposed as director. On motion made by Costello and seconded by William Brinner, the entire slate was unanimously elected. The new officers will be formally installed at a meeting to be held in July.

President Buchanan presented the speaker for the evening, Gunnery Sgt. Clifford Claypool of the U. S. Marine Corps. Sgt. Claypool presented two absorbing films entitled, "Why Viet Nam," and "Wherefore Art Thou?" The first film, prepared by the Department of Defense and the Marine Corps, vividly demonstrated reasons why the United States is in Viet Nam. The second film showed the roll of a Marine chaplain in administering to the Marine Corps in Vietnam. Both of these excellent presentations were well-received by local Lions. A brief question and answer period followed the films.

Buchan announced there would be no Lions Club meeting Monday, May 29 due to the Memorial Day holiday. The next meeting was proposed for Monday, June 5 at the Flamingo.

Home Makers Slate Luncheon

Home Makers Club met at Saugerties Bank building last week for lessons on the making of art foam hangers and lint brushes. Martha Scheider was the instructor.

Next project will be the making of "Angels," under the supervision of chairlady Margaret McColl.

An election of officers was held as follows: chairlady, Margaret McColl; vice chairlady, Katherine Helm; treasurer, Helen Walbroeker; secretary, Mazie Kuster; publicity, Ethel A. Jehle.

A meeting will be held June 19 at 12:30 p. m. and members are urged to attend so all can discuss a luncheon, which will be held at Leherbs, in Kingston, on June 21 at 12:30 p. m. with Mary Meyers as chairlady.

Class Visited Corner Bakery

Primary ungraded class of Main Street School toured the Corner Bakery recently, accompanied by the teacher, Mrs. Grace Snyder.

Children had the opportunity of seeing the process of "painting" cookies with butter and flavoring. The huge mixing bowls and electric mixers were interesting items to them and they saw the revolving ovens, bread baking and various other "goodies" in the ovens. They

Mohawk Airlines Seeks Variance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mohawk Airlines is seeking permission to operate directly between Ithaca, N.Y., and Washington, without stopping at Elmira-Corning, N.Y.

In a petition filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board Thursday, Mohawk assured the CAB that it would continue to provide Elmira-Corning with at least three daily round trips serving Washington.

Mohawk said that the present requirement that all flights from Ithaca to Washington stop at Elmira-Corning resulted in a landing only 12 minutes after taking off from Ithaca.

The routing requirement — which extends to service with Philadelphia — also has frozen service into specific times geared to the Washington National Airport and results in traffic congestion at Elmira, Mohawk said.

Regents Appears Split on Effect School Aid Move

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Members of the State Board of Regents, governing body of all education in New York State, appeared divided today on the effect of a resolution dealing with state aid to schools.

One of the regents told a newsman that a resolution, approved by the regents by a 10-5 vote Thursday, "tears the guts out of the Blaine Amendment."

Another member of the prestigious board said, however, that he believed the resolution was "unfortunate in that aid to denominational schools has been seriously blurred by this proposal."

At issue was the so-called Blaine Amendment in the State Constitution, which denies aid, either directly or indirectly, to any private or parochial school. Transportation is specifically exempted from the prohibition.

The regents are conducting their monthly meeting here following custom that calls for a May meeting in some other city of the state besides Albany, where the regents usually meet.

Chancellor Edgar W. Couper told newsmen that the regents had discussed the amendment for more than a month without reaching unanimous agreement.

The regents' action is significant because the problem of state aid to private schools is expected to be one of the most controversial to come before the State Constitutional Convention now in session.

Couper said a general feeling among the regents was that the issue should go to the voters as a separate item.

Conigliaro Now On Reserve Duty

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Pfc Anthony Conigliaro wants to be treated just like any other Army reservist spending two weeks on active duty at Camp Drum, the sprawling training facility near this city in Northern New York.

And — he is and he isn't. As Tony Conigliaro, the long-hitting right fielder for the American League Boston Red Sox, Conigliaro gets far more attention than the average "weekend GI."

But as Pfc Conigliaro he draws about the same duty as any other reservist training here. Which means he washes a few garbage cans and works on tactical problems with his unit, the 412th Engineer Co. of Massachusetts.

Conigliaro figures his two week stint, which started last Saturday, will cost him 35 games with the Red Sox. In addition, weekly Reserve meetings will account for about 25 more missed games, Conigliaro told a newsman.

"All I'd like to do is earn my living and receive equivalent training year-round in the Boston area," he said, adding that several Red Sox players do that now.

"What are they trying to do — pick on the bigger name players?" he asked.

Conigliaro spent six months on active duty at Fort Dix, N. J., after the 1965 season and, to maintain his status in the Reserve, is obligated to attend Reserve meetings and summer training through 1971.

It was during the 1965 season that the 6-foot-3, 200-pounder smashed 32 home runs to lead the American League in that Department.

Asked about the American League pennant race, Conigliaro answered:

"I like Minnesota or Baltimore. I don't think Detroit has the bull pen and Chicago lacks hitting."

Javits Believes Mideast War Real Possibility

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., says war in the Middle East, even by miscalculation, is a very real possibility.

New York's senior senator offered that assessment Thursday of the crisis between the Arab powers and Israel while talking to newsmen before a Town Hall speech here.

In addition, Javits said, the situation may have been triggered by "those who want to divert us from our efforts in Vietnam."

"It seems inconceivable the Russians aren't in this up to their ears," Javits said.

He criticized U.N. Secretary General U Thant's decision to remove the United Nations' peacekeeping force from the area as "deniable."

In his Town Hall talk, Javits suggested that the U.S. halt its bombing of North Vietnam but declared he was not in favor of appeasement.

Awaits Ruling On Townships Participation

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — The state attorney general will be asked to decide if local governments can participate in meetings and activities of non-governmental economic and cultural development groups.

James E. Brett of Watertown, president of the North Country Economic and Cultural Council, said Thursday he would seek such a ruling after the Plattsburgh delegation to the council walked out of a meeting.

Mavor Francis Steltzer of Plattsburgh led the walkout, contending that his city could not participate legally in the council.

He has said that he is afraid the council's actions would "impede or retard local initiative."

Brett said he had assured Steltzer that the council would not assume jurisdiction over local projects.

The council area embraces nine counties. About 50 persons, including representatives of Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Jacob K. Javits and the Economic Development Administration, attended Thursday's meeting.

The council approved a budget of $44,800 for the fiscal year. The EDA will provide 75 per cent of the money.

Boston U Has First Class of Quickie Doctors

By HOWARD F. ANGIOINE
BOSTON (AP) — Stuart E. Siegel remembers a "few times when I fell asleep at my desk." But now only six years after graduation from high school, he will have an M.D. degree.

Siegel and 23 classmates have cut two years off the time normally required to become physicians.

They are the first graduates of Boston University's pioneering program to reduce the length, and cost, of medical education.

"We didn't want to develop something for geniuses — anybody can do that — but a program for the well motivated high school student, in about the top third of his class, who wanted to get on with the show," says Medical School Dean Dr. Franklin G. Ebaugh Jr.

"I think we've shown that, for reasonably well motivated students, we can do the job in six years and not sacrifice quality," he says, "although we can't pass final judgment until we see what type of physicians they become."

By taking accelerated courses at the university's liberal arts college in their first two years and by attending summer classes, the students did four years of college work in the equivalent of three scholastic years. At the start of the program's third year, they entered the medical school to follow its regular four-year curriculum.

Each student saved an estimated $2,000 or more, but more important, Ebaugh says, they gained two years to "get started on a career and positions of creativity and responsibility."

Members of this and subsequent six-year groups have done as well, on the average, as students who entered the medical school after college, Ebaugh says.

Siegel, 23, of North Plainfield, N.J., is president of the entire 66-member graduating class, and of two honor societies at the school.

"There were times when you didn't know if you could keep up the work, but I think we've all come through unscathed," he says.

Rich Merchant Dies

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Robert Perez de la Sala, 50, an international merchant reputedly worth $112 million and known in Sydney for smoking 12-inch cigars, died Friday of a heart attack.

De la Sala was head of John Manners Co., a Hong Kong firm with extensive shipping interests. He also had interests in mining, race horses and real estate in Australia, the United States and Asia. He reportedly owned an entire street of shops that was destroyed by an earthquake in 1964 in Anchorage, Alaska.

To End Voyage

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — Sir Francis Chichester will finish his solo 28,000-mile voyage around the world Sunday—255 days after he started—if the winds and busy English sea traffic let him keep up his present speed.

Two Royal Air Force planes searched 20,000 square miles of ocean and found Chichester's 53-foot yacht Gipsy Moth IV 385 miles from Plymouth Thursday night, making about seven knots—eight miles an hour—through long Atlantic swells.

The 65-year-old yachtsman, who set out last Aug. 27, looked fit and well. He waved to the planes and they dropped a bright red canister containing the message: "The Royal Air Force welcomes you, Sir Francis."

Chichester this morning was sighted about 230 miles off the southwest tip of England. The weather was good and the wind favored him.

Greeks Release 270

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek military regime announced today it has released 270 political prisoners rounded up as known leftists in the early hours of the April 21 coup.

This was the second group to be set free in the last 10 days from the southeastern Aegean prison island of Yfouira, where about 6,000 persons are being held. About 250 were released May 17.

A government announcement said the released prisoners were brought to the Greek mainland by a navy landing craft and sent home late Thursday night.

Special security committees are reviewing individual cases on the island, and the total of released prisoners is expected to reach 3,500 by the end of next week.

Rat Menace

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Millions of ravenous rats are attacking sheep and other animals in the drought-ridden northern area of South Australia, State police said today.

Community Unites In Aid to Migrants

By CARL O. GRAHAM
Wellsville Daily Reporter
WELLSVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—

Sister Mary Joseph of Wellsville is one of a dedicated group of persons trying to help the children of migrant workers in western New York State.

Working with her are elderly couples, teen-agers, ministers and members of fraternal organizations. There also are other women clad in the flowing habits of religious orders.

They work at the St. Martin de Porres summer camp, on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Yahnke near Albion, north of here and in Orleans County between Buffalo and Rochester.

Approximately 70 per cent of the children at the camp are from families that remain year around. Others are from the true migrant families, those who annually travel to the orchards and fields in the state for the harvest.

Bottom of Head

Uneducated and unskilled, they find themselves at the bottom of a job market where the premium is on skilled labor. Children of migrant families in the area are picked up in microbuses and taken to camp to spend the day. Instruction begins after a good meal.

The children are tutored in small groups, and the volunteers attempt to keep instruction on an informal basis. They place the children in groups where they are capable of doing the work, regardless of their ages.

Sister Mary Joseph, a member of the faculty at the Immaculate Conception School here, says the children are hostile and withdrawn at first.

Wait for Smile

"You have to be with them for a long time before they smile back," she says. Most of the schooling is in remedial reading and arithmetic.

The numbers are taught in terms of money, the only mathematics that has any validity to the children. It is not unusual for the untutored parents to buy $30 worth of groceries on credit, return the next week to pay $40 and be told that they still owe $20.

Many of the children have witnessed murders. Most have seen someone cut up badly.

Sister Mary Joseph feels that the greatest problem the volunteers face is to give the migrant families a feeling of self-respect. No permanent gains can be made, she says, until "they can be taught to take pride in themselves, and make an effort to help themselves."

The Rev. John J. Dunnigan, assistant pastor at Immaculate Conception Church here, recruited a group of young people from a North Tonawanda parish. They spent long hours teaching simple songs by group recitation.

Many Do Their Bit

"Lots of people in this community have done their bit," the young nun says, mentioning contributors of cash and food.

She is encouraged by the support from other communities.

"It was terrible to see the apathy of people around them at first," she says. "People would help for a little while, then give up."

She says she and many other volunteers will be back for years to come as long as there are 12-year-old children who never have seen the inside of a school.

Red Satellite

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union launched today its fifth Molniya communications satellite and reported all equipment on board was functioning normally.

The Molniya satellites are used for transmitting radio and television programs. The first Molniya—the word means lightning—was put up April 23, 1965, the fourth last Oct. 20.

To Aid Education

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) —

Novelist Pearl Buck arrived in Seoul today to open a center to educate 3,000 children of mixed Korean and American parentage and help their mothers find jobs and security.

The 74-year-old author said she would select a site for the center and attend the groundbreaking ceremony during her three-week stay in Seoul.

She told newsmen she plans to establish similar centers costing more than a million dollars for children of mixed blood in Japan, Okinawa, Formosa, the Philippines, Thailand and South Vietnam.

Greene Woman Hurt in Crash

While driving her car on County Route 67 near Cairo at 1:30 a. m. today, Patricia Rose, 34, of Box 310-C, R.D. 2, Catskill, lost control as the vehicle slid on wet pavement and overturned on its top.

Leeds State Police said the woman was driving south at the time of the mishap. She was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital and treated for contusions. Troopers A. J. Peterson and B. M. Arnold cited the driver for failure to have the vehicle under control.

Niagara Gorge Is Cracking Up

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A close-up at the 75-foot-high cliff at Prospect Point, where 100 tons of rock broke loose May 11, disclosed numerous cracks not visible from the top or bottom of the Niagara Gorge.

Officials of the Niagara Frontier State Park Commission inspected the cliff Friday. They rode on a platform lowered by a crane.

Arthur B. Williams, commission chairman, said he did not believe there was an immediate danger of another slide but said "torrential rains could change the situation."

Business Mirror Reflections

Steps Taken to Assure Jewish Members on Board

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Less than one year after reporting that 45 of the nation's 50 largest commercial banks had no Jewish senior officers, the American Jewish Committee claims that banks now are taking remedial measures.

At its annual meeting here, the AJC reported the American Bankers Association already has taken several steps against the "pattern of exclusion."

Among the steps:

—Distribution by the ABA of a career brochure on banking to campus Hillel groups. Hillel is a foundation engaged in Jewish religious and cultural programs.

—Addition of studies on discrimination and minority employment problems to the curriculum of Stonier Graduate School of Banking, conducted by the ABA at Rutgers University.

—Plans for a workshop on discrimination to be included at the ABA annual convention in September.

The ABA verifies that it is working on the problem, but it does not concede that conscious discrimination created it.

As to the cause, Dr. Charles Walker, executive vice president of ABA, says, "I frankly don't know. Some people would argue that there was conscious discrimination. But what we do know in no way indicates the cause."

The causes, the AJC maintains, range from open discrimination to more subtle—often unintentional—stereotyped thinking.

The committee's report states:

"Thus, the absence of Jews from bank management was most frequently attributed to a supposed lack of interest in jobs of this kind, which in turn was thought to stem from such alleged qualities as 'Jewish aggressiveness.'"

These were some of the reasons given by bankers, as quoted by the AJC:

—Jews are inclined toward wheeling and dealing, and impatient with the slow advancement of the typical banking career.

—The slow progress of banking does not appeal to people who are aggressive.

—Banking does not appeal to Jews because they are too anxious to get ahead and make substantial money.

The real reasons, the AJC maintains, are bias, false assumptions about the ability of Jews to become part of a team, misconceptions about career growth of Jews—they are supposedly too money-oriented and impatient.

In addition, the AJC maintains, young Jewish college graduates are discouraged from finding banking jobs because of the obvious absence of success by previous candidates and employees. And the bank's recruitment, convinced that the bank's antibias edicts are simply for show, sometimes believes Jews are unwelcome.

Seminary Choir To Lead Joint Service Sunday

Seminarians from the Mount St. Alphonsus Seminary of Esopus, under the direction of Father Terrence Piersen, will lead an ecumenical service of music Sunday 7 p. m. in the Fair Street Reformed Church.

The service, which is sponsored by the Christian Education committee of the Kingston Area Council of Churches, will be a review of Catholic church music from early Christianity until the present day. The three part service will consist of Latin hymns, hymns in English, and a collection of modern folk tunes, used in the Folk Mass. The service will conclude with "Oh, What a Beautiful City."

Area youth and adults from Roman Catholic, Orthodox, and Protestant churches have been invited to attend. Immediately after the service, there will be a hootenanny for the youth in the parish room of the church, put on by some of the seminarians. Refreshments will also be served.

A free-will offering will be taken at the service which will be presented to the seminary library for additional books.

tensive flood damage, and told Roberts that a stream clearance project would not only aid the area's flood problem, but also development of the creek, could also assist the recreation. Speaking for Assemblyman Wilson, Marquardt outlined to the state representative what steps had been taken by the assemblyman for a major flood control project on the Esopus Creek, but how the proposal had been completely rejected by the Federal government through the United States Corps of Engineers. Marquardt also agreed with Nace about the pressing need for stream clearance on the local waterway, particularly for recreational purposes, and pointed to the fact that the Esopus Creek could be developed into one of the finest recreational areas in the county.

The representative of the Conservation Department explained to the local officials that if a recreational navigation project could be justified, then both Federal and State funds might be made available, and that these funds could total as much as 75 per cent of the total cost of the project.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Black Sea is a large inland body of water bounded by the countries of Turkey, Romania, Bulgaria and the Soviet Union. It is about 330 miles wide and 630 miles long, says The World Almanac. While the surface water is relatively fresh, below 650 feet it becomes stagnant and contains large quantities of hydrogen sulfide but virtually no deep-sea life.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed early Friday following Thursday's technical rebound.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were scattered throughout the list.

Gainers outnumbered losers but the industrial average was lower because of a slow showing by blue chips combined with the fact that some of the key stocks in the average were selling ex dividend.

Du Pont, Control Data and General Dynamics were fractional losers.

Combustion engineering was up 2'.

Some very low-priced issues were active and fractionally higher. Among them were Lionel, whose annual meeting is Friday. Gar Wood and United Park City Mines.

International oils were irregularly lower following their rally.

The volume on Thursday's rally was disappointingly small, so chartists had little faith in the advance. The Middle East situation remained critical. Construction awards sagged in April.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) opened on 5,400 shares, off 1/4 at 62 1/2.

General Motors rose 1/4 to 79 1/2 on 3,200.

On Thursday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2 1/4 to 323.2.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Mobilvden rose about a point.

One Man Killed In Collapse of Upstate Theater

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — One man was killed and at least three persons were injured today when sections of a vacant theater collapsed in the heart of the business district.

At least three autos, either parked or traveling by the buildings were reported damaged or buried by the rubble from the former Keith Theater building at Clinton and West Jefferson Streets.

The dead man, described as elderly, was dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital after rescuers removed him from his debris-covered automobile.

Frank Williams of Norwood, Mass., said he had just driven through the intersection when he heard a loud roar as the building collapsed.

Williams said he and other passersby helped two people from damaged autos.

First reports were that the abandoned Wood Hotel had collapsed.

The buildings are among 14 being demolished to make way for a new Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Department store and parking garage.

Brimmer sustained facial bruises. Lenor Brimmer received bruises of the leg and back injuries, and Paul O'Leary, 45, of Staatsburg, a passenger in the Brimmer vehicle suffered lacerations of the face.

The injured were taken to St. Francis' Hospital, Poughkeepsie for treatment.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

by ROGER E. SPEAR

Investment Adviser & Analyst
Never Switch Solely To Get Some Action

Q) "I often wonder if I am doing the right thing by holding onto my stocks. So many of my friends are constantly switching. Do you think I should change any of the enclosed list?"

L. S.

A) Looking over your holdings, I believe your policy is greatly to be preferred to that of your friends. Your issues for the most part seem well selected with generally favorable prospects. Switching solely for the sake of getting some action builds up commission costs and quite frequently substitutes stocks with a poorer outlook. The only reason for making changes would be to improve your potential for appreciation and in this respect you seem to be well situated.

I particularly like, among your lesser-known holdings, Tally Corp. and Tally Industries. The first is a Seattle company in the data processing business and the latter rocket propellants in Arizona. Both are well established in strong growth areas and you would hold them. Cessna is your only stock which I would question. There has been a profit squeeze here and I advise you to switch this issue into Cenco Instruments.

I'm aged 62 with an annual income of $5,400. I do not own property and have no investments.

H. B.

A) I am only too pleased to offer it. You seem well situated in every respect but one. Your current financial position does not protect you against inflation which will probably lower the purchasing power of your dollars over the years ahead. I would like to see you own property or some good stocks, both of which offer a measure of long-term defense against rising costs. However, your savings seem no more than adequate for future contingencies and I don't believe that you are now in a position to lower your cash reserves.

Hints from Heloise

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

Why is it when I deep fry potatoes or shrimps, that the second batch is not nearly as good as the first? And how can I keep the first batch warm while the second batch is cooking?

Quandary

Dear Quandary:

Don't be in one any more! I talked with some manufacturers of cooking oil and here are the answers they gave:

Perhaps you are trying to fry too much at one time. Or maybe you're using too small a pan and too little fat. Either reduce the amount of food you are frying in your dipping basket, or use a bigger pot and add more stuff to fry it in. One company suggested that you shake your wire basket while the food is in the hot fat, right after the bubbles die down. In all the kitchens I have seen (including famous restaurants and hotels), they always do this. This not only shakes the pieces of food apart, but allows more uniform cooking.

Another company suggested that the frying fat should always be brought up to the correct temperature before putting in another batch of food. I thought that was an excellent idea. Remember, we are putting in a bunch of cold food to fry, and as it cooks, heat is being transferred from the oil to the food.

Here's some more hints (from another manufacturer) that will help prevent smoke in your kitchen:

Any floating food particles that are left in your hot oil should be fished out before you put in the next batch of food. After all, why keep cooking these till they burn? Here's something else I learned which I think is great. If you are frying three or four batches of potatoes or shrimp, after each batch is drained you can keep them hot by setting them on a baking pan in a pre-heated oven which is kept at 300 degrees. It works! Most of us make the mistake of turning our oven on 375. That's too high. It keeps food cooking.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Just wrapped a package for mailing and had the idea of packing the extra space around the gifts with the plastic bags from the cleaners.

These bags don't add weight to a package like paper does yet they hold gifts nicely in place, and provide good cushioning because of the air pockets in the crumpled up plastic.

Mary Monaco

Dear Heloise:

Many of us have to carry little nitro tablets with us at all times, so I thought others might appreciate my solution.

I purchased a gold locket about the size of a quarter. The tiny nitro pills fit perfectly into my locket and it eliminates the necessity of carrying a pill bottle around.

Thus I have my medicine with me at all times, and a beautiful piece of jewelry in the bargain.

(My husband had the locket engraved saying they were nitro tablets and why I needed them.)

M. B. H.

Dear Heloise:

I was looking for something to carry a cake to a dinner party when I discovered something unusual.

I turned a large cereal box on its side and slipped my fresh oblong cake into it. Then I put a plastic bag over the whole thing. When I arrived at the dinner, my cake looked as nice as when freshly frosted.

K. K.

Dear Heloise:

After breaking my ignition key off in my locked car door I learned a lesson.

I wrote that original key number on my driver's license so if I break or lose it again I can easily have one made.

Mrs. W. R. Hill

Dear Heloise:

A little hint to expectant mothers:

During the last month of waiting, prepare a double portion of those favorite family recipes such as meat loaves, sauces, etc. Use one portion that night and freeze the other.

In the hectic weeks following the arrival of the little angel, dinner can be readied in no time.

Freak Mishap Takes Life of Road Worker

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — An unusual accident Thursday claimed the life of Kenneth Helmer, 56, of Baldwinsville, who was killed when struck by an electrical charge from an unidentified source while working on Route 690 in Syracuse.

Police said a witness told them that an arc of electricity passed between a crane and truck and struck Helmer, who was directing the operations of the crane.

Other witnesses said that neither the truck nor the crane were touching power lines when the accident occurred.

No one else was injured. An autopsy was scheduled.

Get Red Contract

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Gleason Works, manufacturer of automotive gears and gear-cutting machinery, has received a $3-million order from Russia — its first since World War II, a spokesman said today.

Charles Park, Gleason's general sales manager, said more than 50 machines for manufacturing axle gears would be delivered to the Moskvitch plant in Moscow by Dec. 31. The Russian firm makes small automobiles.

He said the machinery fell within the category of "peaceful, non-strategic trade," which President Johnson would like to increase with Communist countries.

4,000 Apply For Sale of Lottery Ducats

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — About 4,000 applications have been received to sell lottery tickets and the sale of the $1 chances will begin as scheduled on June 1, the State Tax Department says.

Tax Commissioner Joseph J. Murphy said Thursday that the tickets have been shipped to nine regional banks for distribution to local banks for sale next Thursday.

Motels and Hotels will be able to pick up the tickets from the local banks next Wednesday, Murphy said, adding that they also would begin selling tickets the next day.

His announcement soured reports that the department might postpone the opening date for sales for several days because of administrative setbacks in beginning the lottery.

Earlier this week, Western Union announced that it would not handle the ticket sales because the commission of five cents for each $1 ticket was not sufficient. Several banks in the state also have declined to act as ticket vendors.

In addition to banks, motels and hotels, Murphy has said that some local government offices also will be able to sell tickets. The first drawing is scheduled for July 20.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Friday, May 26, the 146th day of 1967. There are 219 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1868, the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson brought his acquittal in the Senate.

On this date, Tennessee was organized as a territory.

In 1805, Napoleon Bonaparte was crowned king of Italy.

In 1942, a 20-year treaty of alliance was signed by Britain and the Soviet Union.

In 1946, normal service was restored on U.S. railroads after a strike, and government control ended.

Ten years ago — Disorders subsided in Haiti as Daniel Fignole was sworn in as provisional president.

Five years ago — A United Nations committee said it found no threat to peace as a result of South Africa's racial policies.

One year ago — The U.S. cultural center and library in Hue, South Vietnam, was sacked and turned by young rioters.

Privacy Offered In Rear Parlor

By JACK McLENEY

I don't know if you have given it much thought, but there's a world of difference in living in your own home when the living room is at the rear of the house instead of in front.

Primarily you feel the difference in the privacy you gain. In addition, where you have a rear view, as so many modern homes do, a living room with a picture window or window wall enables you to take advantage of it.

Today Associated Architects present just such a plan for a compact yet amazingly roomy home, "The Pritchard." Blueprints for this ranch-type home are available at moderate cost, but I'll tell you about this in a minute.

Two bedrooms at one end of the house provide sleeping quarters that are roomy and have closets to fill your needs. The master bedroom has a particularly fine closet arrangement in its twin wardrobes, smartly equipped with sliding doors. Windows are correctly placed in both bedrooms enable them to benefit from natural sunlight and cooling breezes.

I've touched only on the major highlights of "The Pritchard" plan. You'll want to check all the details for yourself, I know, and the way to do that is to order blueprints, using the accompanying coupon. The drawings are inexpensive and may be used for actual construction. But make sure to mark the coupon with your choice of basement or without basement.

"The Pritchard" has 1,100 square feet of living space, to which may be added another 240 square feet for the garage. The artist's sketch shows the house built with wood siding; plans also show how it may be constructed of concrete block and brick veneer.

Some old fashioned things never seem to lose their appeal. The cedar closet and the straight razor are in greater demand than ever.

Additional sets of blueprints only $7.00 per set.

Dangerous Tub

The ceramic tile bathroom today is so widely accepted as a necessity of life that it's often forgotten that "it" wasn't always so. A hundred years ago when President Millard Fillmore was preparing to install a bathtub in the White House, word got out. The Cincinnati Academy of Medicine sent him a resolution warning that it wasn't healthful to remove all one's clothes at once and urging him to ban the dangerous tub.

Cedar Chest

Here's a build-it-yourself cedar chest that is inexpensive and functional. Recline your dresser drawers with aromatic cedar closet lining that gives permanent moth protection—just like a cedar closet. It's a great idea for apartment dwellers who lack safe storage space for furs and valuables.

Packaged Cedar

Why make a hard job out of building a cedar closet? Ready tongue-and-groove closet liners of red cedar can be purchased pre-packaged at almost any lumber yard.

Crawl Space Cover

A house built over a crawl space should have a vapor-proof ground cover of 4 mil polyethylene or 55 lb. rolled roofing. This will prevent floor problems due to rise of soil moisture.

Hints Offered In Preserving Fine Furniture

Aside from the initial purchase of a home, your furniture constitutes the largest domestic investment you will make. Therefore, you should treat your furniture as an important investment—something that will be both functional and beautiful for years to come.

The remarkable modern furniture finishes protect, preserve, and bring out a hidden beauty in the wood. They also have a hard smooth surface that should be properly cleaned and cared for to resist staining and making.

The following suggestions from the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association will help simplify furniture care.

Your furniture should be dusted frequently—and be sure to follow the grain of the wood to avoid causing surface scratches. Use a drop or two of a quality furniture polish on your dust cloth to help pick up the dust, instead of just pushing it around the surface. Occasionally waxes will build up gradually and create a thick film which hides the natural beauty of the wood. To remove this film, wash the finished surface with a sudsy solution of warm water and a good detergent or soap flakes. Remember to rinse your cloth often and again follow the wood grain—then wait until all surfaces have dried thoroughly before beginning to wax or polish. Don't wet the glued joints. Furniture, finished only with oil should never be washed.

Before using wax, polish, or other furniture-care products, be sure to carefully read and follow the label instructions. Even though you may have used the product before, a new ingredient might be added or a helpful hint given. Always consult any booklets which may have been attached to the furniture by the manufacturer or dealer giving special instructions or suggestions about caring for its finish.

Protect your furniture finishes from unnecessary marks or stains by placing a pad under hot bowls and platters—and remember to use coasters under drinks, flower pots and other containers for liquids. Since some rubber compounds and vinyl films may stain or soften furniture finishes, never use rubber mats or coasters unless there is a felt pad beneath them. To further prevent discoloration, always lift lamps, ashtrays, etc. when dusting or polishing. Rearrange these objects at regular intervals so that no one spot is constantly covered—especially on furniture which is exposed to sunlight. Spilled liquids or water-rings under glasses should never be allowed to dry or to remain on a finished surface for any length of time. Instead, they should be blotted dry immediately to a void leaving an unsightly permanent stain.

Even with the best of care some accidents seem to occur—especially to that favorite piece of furniture. However, most of these damages can be repaired—either by a professional finisher (for deep scratches, dents, or serious marks and stains) or with the use of various touch-up products.

Reputable paint and hardware stores carry a wide assortment of materials to help the do-it-yourselfer mend minor damages to furniture finishes. To assure best results, always read the label directions and follow them carefully.

You can add years to the life and beauty of your furniture if you give it the care it deserves—the BEST care!

Plywood, Brick, Clapboard Appeal In Ranch Front

By JACK McElaney

Today's house plan by Associated Architects—"The Kingston"—calls for an eye-catching combination of three materials used for the outside wall—clapboard, plywood and brick.

The living room's window wall is framed by brick and tied to the chimney. The effect of this is to make the chimney an integral part of the design; in so many homes a brick chimney atop a wood house gives the impression of a sure thumb.

Smooth, fire-stick plywood is used to frame the front bedroom and bath windows. This is outdoor-grade veneer, whose glues will withstand the rigors of any weather. It may be painted, or finished in stain to bring out the richness of the grain.

"The Kingston" is a three-bedroom house with attached garage. There are three entrances, one at the front, and a two-way arrangement at the rear. One of these comes from the garage (and is best appreciated when the weather goes bad); the other is directly opposite, leading from a covered porch.

As you can see by the drawing of the floor plan, each of the bedrooms is big enough to accommodate its occupants without cramping. Corner windows in two give a dramatic touch, in addition to the way they light up and ventilate the rooms. All have closet space that will bring an end to your present storage problems.

Linen closet and bath are both centrally located; the bath, in fact, has its own closet, which is a natural for storing towels. A full tub in a recessed cove is a note of luxury not always found in homes in this price range.

Living room, dinette and kitchen round out this really attractive home. Let's glance at the living room first. It measures 14 by 23 1/2 feet and receives its light from the big window wall we've mentioned, as well as a double window located in the dining area. The latter, incidentally, has its own built-in china cabinet.

Without going to unnecessary expense, we've designed a neat entrance that includes a coat closet and a set of floor-to-ceiling decorative shelves. Walk into this foyer, turn into the living room and you'll see the fireplace, with another built-in at its left—a bookcase with wood box underneath.

Just a word about the modern kitchen, and then I'll tell you how to obtain plans for "The Kingston". The kitchen workshop of any home is right up-to-the-minute because it has space for washer and drier, now indispensable in a new house. Cooking will come easily here, thanks to the scientific layout. To point to one thoughtful thing: The range is close to the dining

Room 'Hideout' Will Thrill Child, Build His Character

Every child is entitled to his own private hideout, camp, retreat, or study, as the case may be.

In many cases, the hideout can be his own bedroom. The youngster's imagination will fill in the rest.

In any case, the decor and furnishings needs to be of mighty durable stuff, for a growing child will give them a rough time. Here are some tips for the youngster's private "hideout".

Noise won't bother him, but with the door shut and an acoustical ceiling the family can be spared some of the hubbub.

A cork or plastic tile floor, laid for long life on a Masonite underlayment base, will wear well and permit little sound transmission to the room below.

A prefinished Royalcote wood-grained paneling on the walls will provide a wear and dent resistant surface, plus top appearance. It wipes clean with a damp cloth and takes bumping and other hard wear without flinching.

Other necessities to kid-proof a room are a chalkboard, a simple do-it-yourself project in which Masonite tempered hardboard is covered with slating material brushed on or sprayed from a can; a Peg-Board panel above the desk or bookcase for the display of hobbies, trophies and school exhibits; rugs, curtains and spreads that are washable.

Having his own room is a great influence in developing a child's good living habits. By kid-proofing it, parents assure its durability and low maintenance, with ordinary initial costs for furnishings and decor.

And every youngster will enjoy having his own "hideout" or study where he can work, study and play. For helpful suggestions, send a postcard for a free plan, AE-403, "Youth Room." Address Masonite, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690.

The Weeders Guide

Nature, through a process labeled "genetic feedback" by an expert on insects, is solving some of the pest problems created by man.

Disastrous outbreaks of insect pests often occur when man disrupts the balance of nature, a Cornell University entomologist said. The "genetic feedback" restores the equilibrium and this can be speeded up by development of pest resistant plants, Prof. David Pimentel said at a recent Michigan meeting.

Endangered plants and trees will in time develop resistance to insect attack, Pimentel said. His reasoning:

Pest populations build up when plants are moved from their natural environment. Changes in temperature, moisture, spacing and fertilization associated with cultivation may make a plant less resistant to the same insects it had faced under natural conditions. They may also lessen the effectiveness of the natural enemies of the pests.

When a plant is introduced to a new area, it also may be exposed to attack by insects not found in its original range. In the "genetic feedback" system, the great hunger of the pests is their downfall. The insects feed heavily at first on susceptible plants and they increase in population. The feeding insects destroy most of the plants before they can reproduce, but those surviving are the most resistant and their characteristics are passed on to their offspring.

The process of screening is repeated until the plant population becomes generally resistant, while the insects decline, because they cannot feed as effectively as before.

Pimentel said elm trees would not disappear from America because they are building up genetic resistance to the Dutch elm disease. Similarly, he expects balsam fir trees in Canada to overcome the menace of the European balsam fir aphid.

He said the proof of the success of artificially developed strains resistant to insect attack is the production of a variety of wheat resistant to the Hessian fly that ravaged Kansas grain.

Economical underground sprinkler systems are now available for as little as $24.95 for a starter kit that can be expanded to a $99.95 (and up) system. One manufacturer (Toro) says that to install the system you need only a square-tipped spade to slit the turf and bury the pipe, and a knife to cut the pipe and control tubing.

A starter kit includes a wave sprinkler, 35 feet of polyethylene pipe, a hose adapter and a pipe adapter. Other units may be added easily.

The same company has developed a sprinkler with a pop-up head. It is flush with the ground, and pops up two inches when the water system is activated. It pops down when the watering is completed.

Garage Needs Fix-Up

The common "no man's land" of the home owner is his garage. Too often it's the catchall for garden equipment, bicycles, tricycles and camping equipment—most of them standing or stacked on the floor.

"No man's land" can be changed from an unsafe jungle into a civilized place, at little cost and a great gain in convenience for all concerned. The cure lies along two lines: Storage in cabinets and on walls.

Since most garages aren't intended for storing anything but an automobile, there may not be room for even a corner cabinet but there is room for floor-to-rafter installations of Masonite Patterned Peg-Board, the pre-finished quarter inch, paneling which can hold things off the floor but within ready reach.

And there often is room above the rafters for bulky storage such as out-of-season screens or storm windows and sports equipment. Here, a floor of Masonite 1/2-inch Tempered Presdwood, nailed to the rafters, will hold reasonable weights. If in doubt, add more rafters.

Gardening tools and equipment, camping and sporting equipment including a heavy item like an outboard motor, can be suspended out of the way on the heavy-duty Peg-Board panels.

The self-decorating feature of Patterned Peg-Board eliminates the need for using a paint brush. And with the inside well organized and spanking fine, you won't be ashamed to leave the door open any more.

Hints on garage fix-up are available free in plan AE-101, "Garage or Carport Storage Area." Write a postcard to Masonite, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690.

Wives Want Air Conditioning

A nationwide congress of housewives, comparing notes on their definition of "the ideal home," voted 64 per cent in favor of year-round air conditioning.

The most practical method of controlling the temperature and moisture of the air, cleaning it and keeping it in controlled circulation is by means of a modern ducted system, according to the Air Distribution Institute.

A ducted system, together with blowers, filters, humidifiers and circulators provides year-round comfort to the entire house. Hooked up with the warm air furnace, it distributes winter comfort throughout the house. A cooling unit—in the summer—makes your home a haven instead of a hades.

Free Floor Books

Among the more important decisions in planning a home is selection of the floors, builders say.

A helpful booklet on this subject is now available to home planners without charge.

Titled "Oak Floors for Your Home," it points out the numerous advantages of oak floors, tells of the various types or styles, sizes and grades, and gives advice on installation, finishing and care.

The home planner who has read the booklet will know, for example, that the two top grades of strip oak flooring are Clear and Select, in that order.

Some people mistakenly believe No. 1 Common is the highest grade because builders often refer to it simply as "No. 1." Actually, it is among the more economical grades, as is No. 2 Common.

For a free copy of the booklet just send a postcard or letter request to Oak Flooring Information Service, 75 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago Ill. 60601.

Emmy, Despite Criticism, Still Shapely Lass

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Battered by past criticism but still healthy, a shapely lass of 19 struts again June 4 before a nationwide audience.

She's E. m. v. television's convoluted counterpart of the movie's Oscar, offering at this year's award ceremonies such novelties as:

—A husband and wife, Martin Landau and Barbara Bain, both nominated for work in the same series, "Mission: Impossible."

—Bill Cosby and Robert Culp of "I Spy" competing for a second time among actors in dramatic series. Cosby won last year.

—Agnes Moorehead nominated in two categories — leading role in a comedy series ("Be-Witched") and supporting role in a single drama ("Night of the Vicious Valentine").

Emmy is a 14-inch, gold-plated statuette wearing wings of lightning and holding in upraised arms a round cage of electrons. Her name evolved from "Immy," derived from "Image Orthicon," the kind of tube used in early TV cameras.

About 50 of her will be presented at ABC-televized hotel ballroom festivities in Los Angeles and New York City. Innovations this year?

"Yes," said Dick Duna, who has produced and directed the last seven Oscar telecasts as well. "Instead of using just short clips from nominated shows, we'll use entire numbers."

Thus, among musicals, there'll be a three-minute song by Frank Sinatra from the tape of his "Sinatra, A Man and His Music, Part 2." Among variety specials, Sid Caesar, Imogene Coca, Carl Reiner and Howard Morris will be seen in their show's opening sketch. Past criticisms have included that the show is too long (it still will run about two hours). That there's a dull, Oscar-like sameness followed by winners walking up and making flattery speeches. There are too many categories.

In 1957 the 29 categories included such a lawbreaker as "Best Continuing Performance (Male)" in a Series by a Comedian, Singer, Host, Dancer, M.C., Announcer, Narrator, Panelist, or any Person who essentially Plays Himself." Jack Benny won.

For last year and this the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences whittled categories down to 23 ranging from comedy series to directing of variety or music. There are nominees also in 10 "craft and daytime" shows, engineering, etc.

Vote to Return To Aniline Plant

RENSSELAER, N.Y. (AP)—members of Local 227, International Chemical Workers Union, have voted to return to work at least until June 15 at the General Aniline & Film Corp. plant here.

The return-to-work vote was taken Thursday night, after a one-day strike.

About 50 workers struck the plant, and approximately 300 other workers did not cross the picket lines Thursday in a dispute over a contract. The employees are to vote later on the company proposal.

At the meeting Thursday night, the union members were told by their attorney that they could not strike because the federal Taft-Hartley law requires a 30-day notification before a possible walkout. The union voted May 15 to strike.

Montreal's Expo 67's restaurants and snack bars can handle 23,000 diners a day.

Valley of Dolls Displays New Film Realism

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Susan Hayward, furiously: "Get outa my way! I've got a man waitin' for me!"

Patty Duke, nastily: "That's a switch from the fags you're usually stuck with!"

Patty vanks off Susan's hair ("My God! It's a wig!") and rushes with it to a toilet. Susan: "My God! She's thrown it down the can!" Patty: "How do you like that? You can't even flush it down the john!"

Such is the movies' new realism — exemplified Tuesday in this acting for "Valley of the Dolls" — and Miss Hayward doesn't necessarily like it.

"It's the way crummy people talk," she justified after the hectic scene. Is that all to the good? "Not necessarily. Personally, I like to see a nice picture. But, then, I'm old-fashioned."

"If you take these lines out of context, they're pretty vulgar. But it's the kind of vulgarity 99 per cent of us use when we're prodded beyond being ladies and gentlemen."

"Still, I think Hollywood more and more is not too healthy an influence. So sue me."

"I liked motion pictures better when you walked out with an uplift. Some said 'Sound of Music' was corny. I loved it."

"The backbone of America still likes decency, and so do I." At 47 Miss Hayward still looks great — svelte, brittle, cool, a redhead whose cover picture on the Saturday Evening Post got her into movies at 20.

Her role as a tough show-biz veteran, into which she stepped after Judy Garland withdrew for what the studio called personal reasons, is her first in Hollywood in four years. In late '65 she made a film with Rex Harrison in Rome.

Will Hollywood be seeing more of her on its sound stages? "I don't think so. Once in a great while, maybe. I have no plans except to get back to Ft. Lauderdale as soon as possible."

Divorced from Jess Barker, by whom she has twin, 22-year-old sons, one of whom is about to enter the Army, she was widowed last year by the death of Eaton Chalkley, Georgia lawyer and ex-FBI agent.

Moored in a canal behind her Florida home are her 38-foot sport-fishing boat, 55-foot shrimp- and 18-foot Boston whaler. With friends she sails to the Bahamas. She caught a 69-pound kingfish and is "shooting" for a white marlin.

Haircut Troubles

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — David Minnick complied with a school edict and almost got jailed.

Minnick, 15, was one of a group of boys sent home from Tom Browne Junior High School to get a haircut.

The barber gave him a regular haircut Thursday, but then his neighbors didn't recognize him and thought a stranger was burglarizing the Minnick home.

Four squad cars answered the burglary call.

"Hey, I live here!" the boy said as he was being led from the house.

Neighbors, after a closer look, realized their mistake.

David was set free.

Big Scot Change

Thursday's Big Scot advertisement, the High Quality Walkie Talkie should have read "Viscount."

For several months in 1783, Princeton University's Nassau Hall was the official meeting place of the American Congress.

West's first decision was that his partner was clearly marked with either four or five hearts. If East held only three, South would have a five-card suit and no one conceals a five-card heart suit when he has a good chance to bid it.

West thought a little more. If the six had been fourth best, then East had to hold both the eight and the nine. West had seen all other cards higher than the six.

That was enough for West. He dropped his queen to get out of his partner's way, eventually gained the lead with the king of spades and gave his partner three heart tricks to set the contract.

That was enough for West. He dropped his queen to get out of his partner's way, eventually gained the lead with the king of spades and gave his partner three heart tricks to set the contract.

West's first decision was that his partner was clearly marked with either four or five hearts. If East held only three, South would have a five-card suit and no one conceals a five-card heart suit when he has a good chance to bid it.

West thought a little more. If the six had been fourth best, then East had to hold both the eight and the nine. West had seen all other cards higher than the six.

Contract is descended from the game of whist through grandfather bridge and father auction. One of the few direct heritages is the standard lead of fourth best of a long suit unless you have a strong reason to lead another card in the suit. Not only do you lead fourth best but if your partner wants to return a low card in his suit he returns his fourth best also.

South looked over dummy and noted that West had attacked in the one suit that could hurt him. In rubber bridge he would duck once on general principles but the game was a match point duplicate and South saw a chance to make 12 tricks and a top score if everything went well.

He rose with the king and it was West's turn to do some real thinking. West noted that he had found the best opening lead. Should he hold onto his queen of hearts and make sure of holding declarer to four no-trump or should he jettison that queen of hearts and take a chance on actually beating the contract?

Gambled on Twins

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — For a $150 gamble, the Douglas Burneys now have $2,000—but Mrs. Burney had to give birth to twins to accomplish it.

The payoff was a check that arrived Thursday from Lloyd's of London, a firm that has a reputation for unusual insurance policies.

The money was earned May 15 when Mrs. Burney, 32, gave birth to Damon, a boy, and Meighan, a girl.

The Burneys said they took out the insurance against twins because, as Mrs. Burney put it, "My husband had a hunch—and he likes to gamble."

Burney, 47, an interior designer, said his hunch involved the fact that his wife's father was a twin and that they had adopted twin sons, Dallas and Paul, now 1.

See Higher Rates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite a government announcement that conventional home loan interest rates declined again last month, speculation continues that rates will turn upward again during the second half of 1967.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported Thursday the average interest rate during April for a conventional mortgage on a newly built house was 6.38 per cent.

The board noted April was the fourth straight month in which the rate dropped. The average rate last December was 6.49, a record which dropped to 6.41 per cent last March.

The board also said the average rate on previously occupied houses was 6.36 per cent, down substantially from the 6.44 per cent of March and the record 6.55 per cent last December.

This was the first time in more than four years in which the board has collected such data that the average interest rate on loans for previously occupied houses dropped below the rate for new home loans.

LONDON (AP) — A cockney boy and an Argentine-born girl have been chosen for international stardom as Romeo and Juliet in a million-dollar movie of Shakespeare's tragedy.

Italian Director Franco Zeffirelli spent three months auditioning 300 youngsters before picking Leonard Whiting and Olivia Hussey as the immortal star-crossed lovers.

Olivia is only 15—a dark-haired beauty who was born in Buenos Aires and came to London with her English mother eight years ago.

Leonard is 16—a handsome London lad who left school only last week.

They will be the youngest couple to play the roles in a modern professional production.

Blaze Damages

Troy Apartment Dwelling, Store

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — A pre-dawn fire destroyed a furniture store and a two-story house today in central Troy. Two firemen were taken to a hospital with injuries.

Harvey Feathers, president of the furniture store, on River Street, said his company's loss would be at least $100,000.

Approximately 50 residents of the neighborhood were evacuated.

Sparks ignited a building several doors away from the brick and frame store, and the roof was damaged.

The injured firemen, struck by flying objects, were taken to Leonard Hospital.

The fire was discovered shortly after 3 a.m.

The cause was not determined.

Approximately 125 firemen from the city and neighboring communities battled the fire during a light rain and 40-degree temperature.

LBJ Thrilled

By Expo, Mum On U.S. Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson publicly pronounced himself delighted and thrilled by Canada's Expo 67—but he was silent about the controversial U.S. pavilion.

Johnson spent 75 minutes at the exposition at Montreal on a fast, suddenly announced visit across the border Thursday.

For about 30 minutes he visited the 20-story plastic and steel geodesic dome housing American exhibits. The dome itself has been heralded widely as striking and magnificent.

The contents have been tabbed everything from marvelous to horrible.

Unlike one of his potential 1968 election rivals, Michigan Gov. George Romney—who emphatically criticized the contents—the President wasn't offering a new descriptive.

Reporters trailing Johnson on a swift tour tossed a couple of questions about how he liked the pavilion. Either he didn't hear or chose to ignore them.

WORLD ALMANAC

FACTS

About 30 per cent of the entire population in the United States is in school or college, says The World Almanac. This amounts to approximately 55.1 million persons between the ages of 5 and 34, or 8.8 million more students than in 1960.

Enrollment in college and professional schools has increased 70 per cent since 1960.

Millbrook Group Calls For Education on LSD

Calling for "education and understanding" of the danger of mind-affecting drugs, a group of Millbrook clergy, doctors and educators today issued a statement assessing the significance of their community's concern. Referring to Dr. Timothy Leary as the "symbolic figure of the non-medical use" of LSD, the group called for the involvement of the whole community.

Their statement follows: "The May 15 meeting of the school board in Millbrook drew over 300 persons voluntarily and spontaneously to express their concern over the question of LSD and narcotics.

"Perhaps, because we have the symbolic figure of the non-medical use of powerful mind-affecting drugs in the heart of our community, it is not surprising that Millbrook felt compelled to assume significant responsibility in the national task of preventing drug addiction through education and understanding.

Cite Emotional Over tones
"Over the weekend previous to the school board meeting it became clear that the meeting was likely to be a large one, and that the issues involved went beyond the scope and authority of our educational leaders. Also, strong emotional overtones were evident in the community because of recent incidents reported or rumored. Because the drug issue is not only an educational problem, but legal, moral and medical, we clergy, together with representatives of the educational, medical and legal profession met and prepared to offer leadership if it seemed necessary at the meeting. We met briefly at 5 p. m. the night of the school board meeting.

"We feel strongly now that the issue has been raised and the feelings of the Community expressed, action must be taken toward positive and creative ends.

"Those at the school board meeting were told that the law enforcement agencies are deeply concerned. Obviously, law enforcement must be left to them, and we strongly urge the willing cooperation of all citizens to help them discharge their responsibilities. Though there is significant sentiment in favor of investigating possible legal steps that might lead to the eviction of Dr. Leary, it is not our intent to take the law into our own hands or to encroach on anyone's civic or religious liberties.

Lippmann to Quit Writing Column

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Lippmann—77 years old and a columnist for 36 years—has announced he is stopping his regular newspaper pieces.

In a brief final installment of his twice-a-week column, he wrote Thursday: "More and more, I have come to wish to get rid of the necessity of knowing, day in and day out, what the blood pressure is of the White House and who said what and who saw whom and who is listened to and who is not listened to."

The Los Angeles Times syndicate had distributed Lippmann's column since the New York World Journal Tribune went out of business recently. The New York Herald Tribune had been the home of his column from 1931 until the paper died last year.

Lippmann said he plans to write articles for newspapers occasionally.

For Boys 6-12

Children's Home Activities

The Children's Home, 77 East Chester Street, is an interracial, inter-faith, non-profit agency providing residential care and treatment for a group of boys from six to 12 years of age, who because of their problems cannot function in a family situation and require institutional surroundings.

The goal of the agency is to provide not only physical care, but help for each child and his family so that they may be restored to a normal living pattern, and as quickly as possible. In order to maintain the program, the home employs a staff of professionally trained people in all departments.

In the educational area the home provides within the framework of the total program, an ungraded school system for boys of normal intelligence whose problems make it impossible for them to successfully cope in a public school situation. There are four classrooms with six students assigned to each teacher of which there are four, including a principal-teacher. The subjects taught are the same as those in a public school. However, each pupil's academic work is geared to his individual needs and capacity.

The clinical department is staffed by a part-time clinical psychologist, a consulting child psychiatrist, and one psychiatric social worker and vacancies for two additional social workers. This department works in coordination with the other departments and serves as a liaison between referral and other social agencies, and makes the decision to accept each individual child on the basis of his present status and the prognosis for him and his family. It also provides counseling for those children under care, as well as for their families.

The group living department is the child's home. The child care workers who are the core of the program, supervise the daily living routine. They have an understanding and awareness of each child's needs, and are concerned for his feelings and his relationship with others. These counselors provide direction and stimulate leadership in group activities while they are developing their trust and establishing therapeutic relationships with the child. A group home was recently established for a small number of boys who no longer require institutional supervision. They reside in a family atmosphere with house parents, and this is the first step in returning them to a normal family environment.

Regular team conferences, individual consultations and informal discussions are held throughout the week with representatives of each department, to assure the coordination of all the major program areas.

The home's purpose is to provide an atmosphere that will allow the child's wound to heal, to assuage his hurt and to build for him a self-esteem and a feeling of worth that he has never known. In this way the home hopes to enable him to return to his family situation in as short a time as possible.

Currently there are 36 children under care, with 26 full-time staff, and 10 part-time personnel.

LBJ Asks Vast Vote Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson Thursday urged sweeping election campaign reforms to provide full disclosure of campaign contributions and expenses.

He also asked a $5,000 limit on contributions and congressional appropriations of public funds to help finance presidential campaigns.

The President called for criminal penalties for violations in an Election Reform Act of 1967, which he is proposing.

Johnson outlined his plan in a message sent to Congress today.

He urged Congress to consider promptly the problem of campaign financing and offered his new proposals as guidelines for discussion and debate in the coming weeks.

The President's proposals included:

Full disclosure of where campaign money comes from and how it is spent by every candidate from the presidency to the lowest federal office, with any item over $100 reported. Primary and convention nomination contests would be included. Such disclosure, the President said, "will help dispel the growth of public skepticism which surrounds the present methods of financing political campaigns."

A $5,000 limit on the total amount that any individual can contribute to the campaign of any candidate.

Repeal of present arbitrary limits on the total expenditures of candidates for federal office because they are "totally unrealistic and inadequate" in these times of television, airplane and radio campaigning.

Johnson did not propose an enactment date for his campaign finance package.

Pointing out the skyrocketing costs of modern campaigning, the President proposed changes to improve and strengthen the presidential election campaign fund law, already on the lawbooks, but being contested in Congress.

Rather than individual tax checkoffs, he suggested funds to finance presidential campaigns be provided by direct congressional appropriation.

This, he said, would give Congress an opportunity to make a realistic assessment and express its judgment on what it would cost presidential candidates or parties to carry their views to the voter.

The President proposed a fund set by Congress to be equally divided for the major parties, but with provisions for reimbursement to a minor party—which would be defined as one receiving between 5 and 25 per cent of the popular votes cast in the election.

Shakes 'Wild Man' Tag

Cardinals' Hughes Blanks Braves, 5-0

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dick Hughes, a "wild man in the minor leagues," has opposing hitters in the major leagues under control now after taming down himself.

The St. Louis Cardinal right-hander put down the slugging Atlanta Braves 5-0 Thursday night with a two-hitter, made even brighter because he didn't walk a man.

"That's the first regular season game I ever went nine innings without walking anyone," said the bespectacled 29-year-old rookie. "I did go nine innings once in spring training without a walk, but I was a wild man in the minor leagues."

In the only other National League game, the Chicago Cubs used their bats to bring league-leading Cincinnati under control 5-4 on Ron Santo's tie-breaking single in the ninth inning.

Hughes, making only his fifth start in the majors after struggling nine years in the minors, brought his record to a modest 2-1, the same mark he had with the Cardinals last season when they brought him up at the end of the year.

Was Wild Man
"He never made it before because he was wild," Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst said. Hughes was walking more than four men a game in many of his minor league labors, although striking out twice that number.

But with the Cardinals in 1966, he walked only seven men in 21 innings, struck out 20, pitched a 2-0 shutout in his first start and finished with a 1.71 earned run average.

He has pitched 35 innings in 12 games—10 in relief—in season and walked only 14 while fanning 37 with a 2.83 era.

Hughes struck out nine Braves and only light-hitting Woody Woodward and Marty Martinez managed hits off him. Santo unloaded off reliever Ted Abernathy with one out after the Cubs loaded the bases against Gerry Arrigo on two walks and an error by Leo Candenias.

Before that, Randy Hundley of Chicago and Tony Perez of Cincinnati traded two-run homers; Don Kessinger and Adolfo Phillips doubled home runs for the Cubs, and Jim McInerney hit a sacrifice fly and Tommy Helms a run-scoring single for the Reds.

Cal Koonce picked up his first victory with four shutout innings in relief as the surprising Cubs jumped ahead of Atlanta into fourth place.

Soccer Test Set Sunday At Oehler's

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

While the American sports public and communications media debate the survival potential of professional soccer, a couple of first class amateur teams will be on display Sunday at Oehler's Mountain Lodge in West Hurley.

Kingston Sport Club Kickers, battling for a first division berth in the League Division of the German-American Soccer Association, take on the league leading Bridgeport team at 2:30 p. m.

Bridgeport fields one of the highest scoring units in amateur soccer along the eastern seaboard. The Kingston defense is rated one of the finest. Ergo, the classic format for any sports confrontation!

Deadly Parallel
Despite the affluence of Bridgeport's lofty 31 points off 15 wins, 4 losses and a tie and Kingston's sixth-place 22 points, the amateur soccer league is also having its spectator woes.

A dismal spring which created an unusual number of cancellations and frigid weather for other games has cut deeply into spectator interest in the League Division.

"Maybe the weather will warm up some day and the fans will start coming out to watch us," Manager Bob Graves wryly observed. "A fine brand of soccer is played in this league and we're hoping the area fans realize it."

Graves said the Kickers would be at full strength for Sunday's test. That would mean All-American Gino Ventriglio at center half and the remainder of a durable cast behind him.

Test for Liekosi's

Timo Liekosi's defensive greatness at goalie will get its supreme test Sunday. The Bridgeport squad can pour it out when in form, Liekosi has thwarted the league's best of defense to date and figures to make Bridgeport goals tough and scarce.

Rounding out the Kingston lineup will be such stalwarts as Ron Biggers, Nick Alexander, Richie Lotze, Winnie Sodermann, Reiner Schwebel, Tony Reinhardt, Bill Newmishinsky, Greaves, Weber and the reserves.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Tie	Pts
Bridgeport	15	4	1	31
Spring Valley	13	3	3	29
White Plains	12	2	4	28
Yonkers	11	3	4	26

Name Jackie Jensen As Sports Director

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Jackie Jensen, former major league baseball and college football star, was named sports director Thursday of television station KTVN.

Station General Manager Lee Hirschland said Jensen would begin his duties when the station goes on the air June 4.

Jensen, 40, played with New York, Washington and Boston in the American League. He was the league's Most Valuable Player of 1958.

Named MVP

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Mike Nykoluk, veteran center of the Hershey Bears, was named the American Hockey League's Most Valuable Player for the 1966-67 season today.

Nykoluk, also a standout defensive player, led the league in assists with 68 and scored 16 goals.

In the voting by hockey writers and broadcasters, the Bears' star collected 29 points. Gordon Labossiere of Quebec was second with 14 points.

Nykoluk will receive the Les Cunningham Award and a league bonus of $300.

Bowl Seeks A Name

NEW YORK (AP) — Now would have missed the first commercial.

So the label Super Bowl became popular. It was born unintentionally as an offhand remark by Lamar Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs, and it grew and grew—until it reached the point that there was Super Week, Super Sunday, Super Teams, Super Players, and Superfans.

It's Bad Name
"We've never used Super Bowl officially or unofficially," a Rozelle spokesman said. "Not many people like it. It's a nickname, and it's a bad play on words. Everything became super this and super that."

Club owners obviously had more important matters to discuss on the third day of the four-day meetings, but all that was made public was the naming of the site of the second Super Bowl.

Before selecting Miami and rejecting Los Angeles, Rozelle said, the owners considered bids from New Orleans and Houston. The Columbia Broadcasting System will pay $2.5 million for the rights to telecast the game.

NBC will get the telecast of the game after the 1968 season while CBS will have it again after the 1969 season when television contracts finally run out. CBS telecasts NFL games, and NBC has AFL games.

All major tournaments played in 1966 are retained on this year's calendar announced today by golf chairman George Svirsky.

The top events include the Member-Guest, Member-Member, President's Cup and club championships. There will be two member-guests, one at 36 holes, the other at 18.

Assisting Svirsky on the golf committee are: Thomas Saccam, Joseph Hill, Floyd Vogt, Floyd A. DeWitt. The handicaps committee is headed by Eugene Berardi, assisted by Francis (Fom) Coughlin and Charles H. Gaffney.

The schedule:
May 30—Flag tournament.
June 3-4: Herdegen qualifying (36 holes); June 10-11: Member-Guest (36 holes); 18—Herdegen Memorial (second round).
July 4—Flag tournament; 8—Club Seniors, 18 holes; 22-23: Member-Member (36 holes); 30—President's Cup 18 holes.
August 12-13: Club and division championships, 36 holes.
September 3—Tournament of Champions; 4-Flag tournament; 24—Member-Guest, 18 holes.
October 8—Pro-Member.

Ferraro Gets Double, Chiefs Beat Yankees

Mike Ferraro stroked a double in five appearances, driving in a run as the Syracuse Chiefs beat the New York Yankees, 5-4, in a 10-inning exhibition game last night at McArthur Stadium Syracuse.

While a capacity crowd of 12,554 watched, the International League Chiefs scored the winning run in the bottom of the 10th as pitcher Dale Roberts singled.

Ferraro's double came in the fourth inning and scored Jerry Kenney, who had singled and stolen, from second base. Mike had two chances in the field and handled them both.

Bill Monbouquette, hoping to land a major league berth after being released by the Detroit Tigers, was touched for four hits and three runs in five innings. Also pitching for the Yankees were Gary Girouard, on the Binghamton roster and Jack Curtis, on the Syracuse disabled list. Curtis was the loser.

Manager Gary Blaylock of Syracuse used Cecil Perkins, Joe Verbanic, Bill Henry, Jim Horford and Roberts, who pitched the 10th inning.

Dave McDonald, Syracuse first baseman, hit a home run in the second inning. The winners had 11 hits against only five for the Yankees.

National Golf Day Set Memorial Day

National Golf Day on Tuesday, May 30, highlights the traditional Memorial Day Weekend opening of the area golf season. The usual social openers also are listed.

National Golf Day is sponsored by the Professional Golfers Association of America.

Golf players across the country will match their scores (with handicaps) against the winner of the match between PGA Champion Al Geiberger and USGA Open Champion Billy Casper.

Casper and Geiberger play their "Round of the Champions" at the Olivas Park golf course in Ventura, Calif., a new club that is 6,769 yards long with a par of 72. Men players use their regular club handicaps, while women add 10 strokes.

Area PGA pros participating include Alex Gerlak of Catskill; Ian (Scotty) Robertson, Wiltwyck and Jim Hutchins of Woodstock.

Other Tournaments Scheduled

Flag Day tournaments are scheduled at all three area clubs on Memorial Day.

Wiltwyck Country Club's men stage their first major tournament of the season—the 36 hole Member-Members which can be played on any two of four dates—May 27, 28, 29, 30. Flag Day is listed for all members Tuesday.

Woodstock Country Club has two other events in addition to Flag Day. A Blind Hole tourney is scheduled for men on Saturday and a Mixed Foursome event is scheduled Monday.

Tountas, Cook Lead in Bowling

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pete Tountas of Tucson and Judy Cook of Kansas City enjoyed substantial leads Friday as the $70,000 All-Star Bowling Tournament headed into the second day of the finals.

Tountas, a Greek immigrant, had a 226-pin bulge on second place Dave Davis of Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Cook was 79 pins ahead of Joanne Chapman of Blencoe, Iowa, the women's runner-up.

Tountas won 11 out of 16 games Thursday and knocked down 3,650 pins for an average of more than 228. His grand total, including 50 pins bonus for every victory, was 4,200.

Mrs. Cook lost only two of her 12 games Thursday. She felled 2,445 pins for an average of nearly 204 and emerged with a gross total of 2,945.

Two New York State women were among the top ten.

Virginia Asland of Niagara Falls was seventh with 2,554, trailed by ninth-place Barb Hoffman of Saratoga Springs with 2,475.

Rule, Zarley Golf Leaders

By BILL LITTLE

Associated Press Sports writer OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — If predictions win tournaments, Jack Rule Jr. and Kermit Zarley should finish well at the $66,000 Oklahoma City Open.

On a hot, windy day Thursday, Rule, who won here in 1965, and Zarley, a former NCAA champion, shot three-under-par 69s to claim a one-stroke lead.

Gary Player, Miller Barber and unknown Larry Ziegler were at 70.

The tournament appeared headed toward the highest cut-off this year, with the wind pushing the projected cutoff to 151, seven strokes over par.

"I think my game has matured greatly in the last few months," Zarley said. "I'm ready to win a tournament."

Zarley missed a three-foot putt on the last hole which would have given him the lead.

Rule, whose last tour victory was here in 1965, commented, "In order to win a tournament, you have to like the course and I certainly like it here."

Rule is the only former champion playing this year. Arnold Palmer is the only man to win the title twice. Last year's winner was Tony Lama, who died in a plane crash last summer.

Rule and Zarley had lots of challengers for the lead. More than 50 golfers were bunched within five strokes.

Ziegler, whose 15 tour tournaments this year have netted only $450, had a 32 on his second nine.

Doug Sanders, limping from a bad knee caused by a blood clot, shot a one-over-par 73.

U.S. Open Champion Billy Casper, considered among the favorites, blew to a three-over-par on the back nine and came in at 74.

Colonial winner Dave Stockton, Bob Charles, Bob Vevey, Wayne Yates, Bob McCallister, Babe Hisey and Jim Colbert all shot 75s.

Final Practices For '500' Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Qualifiers for the 500-mile auto race May 30 were to take their final practice runs at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway today, with track workouts centering on carburetion tests and mechanical adjustments.

Pit crews were allocated three hours practice time after the track was cleared. Smooth and rapid refueling action in the pits is considered a key factor in the Memorial Day race.

The Yankee 300 stock car race at Indianapolis Raceway Park Saturday will provide a weekend interlude for a number of 500 qualifiers. Speedway drivers committed to the stock event over the 1.7-mile course included Mario Andretti, who paced 500 qualifying this year with a record 168.982 m.p.h., and two-time 500 winner A. J. Foyt.

Yankee 300 entrants were to practice this afternoon, with about 55 entries expected to attempt qualifications Saturday morning. The Yankee 300 will start at 2 p.m.

The 500 field will reassemble for the annual drivers' meeting Monday to confer on race rules. The bad start last year, in which 11 cars were eliminated from the race, will be reviewed.

U. S. Soccer Loop To Open Tonight

By TOM SEPPY

Associated Press Sports Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The battle of the transplants gets underway tonight as the Washington Ships host the Cleveland Stokers in the United Soccer Association inaugural.

Washington is represented by the Aberdeen Dons of Scotland and Cleveland is using the Stoke City team of England in the association's initial seven-week season.

In order to get in operation during 1967, the association decided to have foreign teams represent its cities this year. Individual players will be bought in time for 1968.

The rival National Professional Soccer League bought individual players this year. Action in that league has been under way for several weeks.

The 12-city association, which stretches from coast to coast and into Canada, is sanctioned by the FIFA, soccer's international governing body.

Other member cities and the teams which will represent them are: Chicago—Cagliari of Italy; Dallas—Dundee United of Scotland; Detroit—Glentoran of Belfast, Northern Ireland; Los Angeles—Wolverhampton of England; Boston—Shamrock Dovers of Dublin, Ireland; New York—Cerro of Montevideo, Uruguay; San Francisco—Ireland; San Francisco—A.D.O. of The Hague, Holland; Houston—Bangu of Brazil; Toronto—Hibernian of Edinburgh, Scotland; and Vancouver—Sunderland of England.

After tonight's game, Los Angeles will play at Houston Saturday night, and all of the other teams swing into action Sunday.

The league has been divided into eastern and western divisions. Tonight's battle pits two of the potentially strongest Eastern Division clubs.

SARASOTA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Bert Mulholland, 83-year-old trainer of George D. Widener's horses, will be inducted into the Hall of Fame in the National Museum of Racing here in August.

A clever man is one who can so convincingly agree with his wife that she immediately changes her mind.

On the way to the office of his publishers one crisp fall morning, James Whitcomb Riley met an unusually large number of acquaintances who commented conventionally upon the fine weather. This unremitting applause amused him. When greeted at the office with "Nice day, Mr. Riley," he smiled broadly.

Flying the "flag of convenience" or the "flag of necessity" are terms that apply to ships owned by one country but registered under the flag of another, says The World Almanac. The practice benefits the registering country because it receives a fee from the shipowners. The shipowners, on the other hand, often find their tax rates are lower than in their own country.

Two duck hunters were sitting behind their blind early one morning. One was drinking coffee from a thermos; the other was guzzling whiskey from a jug.

Several hours passed before a lone duck came over head.

Taking quick aim, the coffee drinker arose, fired, and missed.

The whiskey drinker also got up, aimed at the bird, and brought it down.

His companion, properly amazed, complimented him on the shoot.

Whiskey drinker — Aw, it's nothing, I usually get five or six out of a flock like that.

Minimum temperatures include: Atlanta 58; Boston 39; Chicago 67; Denver 45; Duluth 42; Ft. Worth 67; Jacksonville 63; Kansas City 60; Los Angeles 60; Miami 70; New Orleans 68; New York 49; San Francisco 48; Seattle 42; St. Louis 67 and Washington 54.

Ruffner Answers

Refutes Resnick Criticism of JOP

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick was referred to as a "sincere but obviously uninformed man" in his criticism of the county justice of the peace court system by the president of the Ulster County Magistrates Association Thursday night at the Ulster County Office Building.

Marbletown Justice of the Peace Edmund B. Ruffner, the association's president, refuted Resnick's charges that the JP system was unfair, outmoded and should be replaced by a district court system.

"The man has attempted a field and attempted to criticize without any knowledge of what he is talking about," Ruffner said. "He is operating on hearsay." Resnick (D-Ellenville) first came into conflict with county JPs when he criticized Ellenville Justice of the Peace Ronald Elias' treatment of petty larceny charges against a Rhode Island man, Kendall Jett. Jett had pleaded guilty to the charges and was sentenced to a year in jail, the maximum, by Judge Elias. Resnick contended the sentence was too harsh for the crime and that Jett did not receive the full protection of the law.

Read by Aide
Resnick, who was not present at last night's meeting attended by Constitutional Convention delegates R. Watson Pomeroy, S. James Matthews and H. Clark Bell, sent a prepared statement read by his district representative, John Logan. Resnick was reportedly detained in Washington on a House vote on the draft law.

In his statement Resnick called for the establishment of a district court system.

Ruffner refuted this saying the district court system was both expensive and ineffective. Ruffner cited figures from only two counties in the state that have district courts, Nassau and Suffolk.

Ruffner said Nassau County has 20 district court judges and a budget of $2,000,000. He said the system ran up a deficit last year of $1,083,000 and has a backlog of over 13,000 cases.

Costs Much Lower
"In contrast," Ruffner said, "we have 66 justices of the peace in Ulster County, two to each town, with salaries ranging from $800 to $3,500 per year, depending on workload. I doubt if the entire county expenditure for these JPs exceeds $100,000. Of course, Nassau County has a much larger population than Ulster but I still feel it is a valid comparison."

Resnick had also recommended that if the present JP system is retained that justices be appointed by their local bar associations. He also urged that all justices be attorneys.

A guest at the hearing, Justice of the Peace Morris Zweig, Albany Law School instructor and editor of the Magistrates Bulletin said, "When the time comes to appoint congressmen we should look into the idea of appointing judges."

Questions Qualifications
Resnick also questioned the qualifications of some JPs to serve. Ruffner replied this saying that at present an elected justice of the peace must complete 60 hours of instruction on Sandblasting.

Plan Discussion Talks to Unions On Starting New Evening Paper

NEW YORK (AP)—Publisher O. Roy Chalk, who has talked of entering the afternoon newspaper field here, says he is preparing an offer to present to the 10 unions in the industry within 30 days.

Chalk says he would be prepared to publish almost immediately if the unions agreed to his proposals, which deal in part with the issues of seniority and automation.

Chalk, publisher of the Spanish language newspaper "El Diario-La Prensa," told newsmen about his plans Thursday night after he had spoken at a post mortem dinner for the World Journal Tribune which shut down recently after eight months of publication.

At the dinner at the Overseas Press Club, he said that while the "odds are against a new afternoon paper coming out soon," he would be willing to start one "if some financial security were offered."

Chalk said that talks with the presidents of the 10 unions have indicated "they would be receptive to thoughts and suggestions."

The death of the World Journal Tribune left the Post as the only afternoon newspaper in Manhattan.

Capt. Levy Case Boils Down to Intent, Ethics

By DON MCKEE

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) —

Capt. Howard B. Levy's court-martial on charges of disobeying an order and promoting disloyalty boiled down today to questions of intent and ethics. Testimony of "war crimes" was ruled out as a defense.

The 10-member military court was summoned back into a stuffy, crowded frame building at Ft. Jackson to hear more testimony after Col. Earl V. Brown, the judge, rejected the key defense move.

Levy, 30, a dermatologist from Brooklyn, N.Y., refused to carry out an order to set up a training program for U. S. Special Forces medics. His attorneys sought to prove the order was illegal because, they said, the combat-trained medics committed "war crimes."

"While there had been perhaps instances of needless brutality in Vietnam," Brown said Thursday, "my conclusion is that no evidence was presented that would make the order illegal on the ground that U. S. forces are engaged in war crimes or crimes against humanity."

Brown said the testimony produced by defense witnesses, who told of atrocities by South Vietnamese, might be considered in setting a lesser sentence if Levy is convicted.

Levy could receive up to 11 years imprisonment.

The Army prosecutor, Capt. Richard M. Shusterman, said the principal issues remaining were intent, ethics and the motive for the order itself.

The court must decide if Levy's statements in opposition to the war, including a letter to a soldier, were designed to promote disloyalty among U. S. troops.

Levy contends that the order to train the soldiers who had no medical background would violate his professional ethics.

Chief defense counsel, Charles B. Morgan Jr. of the American Civil Liberties Union, gave no indication of what track he might take in view of Brown's decision.

YMCA Theft

Local police today continue probe of the reported theft of clothing valued at $290 from a room in the YMCA. Three suits, a jacket and trousers were among the items reported missing. Police said entrance to the room had apparently been gained through an transom.

The clothing owned by Edward Barylski, a restaurant employee, was reported taken between 3:30 p. m. Thursday and 1 a. m. today.

Cmdr. Stewart Guest At Vet Ceremony

Lt. Cmdr. John H. Stewart, representing the Navy Reserve, will be the guest at Joyce-Schirick VFW Post 1386 memorial ceremonies Sunday at 3 p. m. at the Kingston Power Boat Association on Abeel Street.

As in years past a wreath will be cast upon the waters in memory of deceased naval veterans. Casting of the wreath will be by Boatwain's Mate Chief John W. Drake of the local Navy recruiting station. City Police Officer Richard Scherer will be the soloist.

These services are conducted by the Ladies Auxiliary of VFW every year.

Driver Cited After Dutchess Crash Thursday

Cars driven by Joseph Thomas, 25, of 271 Hasbrouck Avenue, and Alfred Pfaff, 41, of R.D. 1, Walkkill, were involved in a collision at 8 p. m. Thursday on Route 9G, Town of Hyde Park.

State Police Sergeant William Urey of Rhinebeck said both vehicles were traveling south when Thomas stopped for a car ahead of him and the Pfaff vehicle hit the rear of Thomas' car.

No injuries were reported but Pfaff was cited by troopers for following too close. The summons is returnable before Justice of the Peace Raymond Hill, Town of Hyde Park.

Athens Vibrant City Despite Dictatorship

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Military dictatorship has failed to change the mixture of Eastern heritage and Western methods that make up the basic flavor of life in Greece.

Democracy no longer exists in this land that invented democracy more than 2,000 years ago, but the physical signs of impact of other democracies can be seen and felt everywhere.

Poverty is no longer the hopeless burden it once seemed to be. Though still one of the poorest members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Greece, until the military takeover, was having the greatest boom in its modern history.

Even under dictatorship Athens is far more vibrant than any city in the Balkans.

Restaurants and taverns are filled with people, shop windows with consumer goods and streets with cars.

While television is still in the beginning stage the inevitable forest of antennas is rising. Athenians stand sometimes 10 deep outside appliance stores gawking at the foreign models selling at $400 to $600.

Sleek and busy with its new luxury apartment buildings, chic cafes and high-style offices, Athens nonetheless continues to show its old Eastern face under the Western overlay.

Turkish-style coffee shops abound along with tiny cluttered loft factories where workers produce textiles, closely fashioned leather goods, copperware and rugs.

The gaps between rich and poor are enormous but a middle class of white-collar workers, professionals and technicians has begun to emerge to serve the new kind of life evolving in the past 20 years. A vital factor in that evolution has been the infusion of $4 billion in U.S. aid since the proclamation of the Truman Doctrine in 1947.

This aid brought roads, bridges, farm improvements, better port facilities, airports, tractors, terracing, fertilizer plants, and a national power system.

American aid also equipped the armed forces.

With its physical and economic improvements and the degree of stability it helped create, American aid was crucial in attracting the interest of foreign investors.

Tourism skyrocketed. Foreigners who fell in love with the country turned out books, movies and a musical comedy lauding the Greeks as frank, earthy, live-loving people.

Despite the boom and the surface look of relative prosperity, the economy is fragile and lopsided. The coup's effect on tourism and foreign investment could wipe out the gains of recent years.

The U.S. government, feeling at the time that Greece was ready to stand on its own feet, ended its aid program in 1963, when the boom atmosphere was at a peak.

Since then the boom has gone somewhat sour, with the economy developing what specialists call "too much fat and not enough muscle."

Cedar closets are easy to build with tongue-and-grooved cedar closet lining available at leading lumber yards.
